—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

EXCESSIVE heat injures Italy's crops; religious processions and prayers for rain in many places. That must give Mussolini a sort of helpless, indignant feeling.

BUT men, in time, will find a way to control rainfall. Italy's necessity may persuade Mussolini to look into it. Absence of microscopic dust in the atmosphere is one cause of drought. It should be easy, with airplanes, to supply missing dust—preferably some hydrophilous substance, like pulverized lime.

IT IS proposed to unite Germany and the fragment of Austria after the joyous carving up by the Allies. France and other nations don't want a bigger, more powerful Germany.

French newspapers, remembering the American peace treaty recently invented, asks: "What would America do should events precipitate trouble?"

America, in all probability, would do something foolish. But at least ninety out of one hundred million Americans will hope, if events precipitate trouble in Europe, that America will know enough to mind its own business and let Europe attend to her business.

LORD BALFOUR celebrates his eightieth birthday, and the Prince of Wales, congratulating him, says Balfour was a member of the cabinet "eight years before I was born, and his golf handicap at eighty is at a lower level than mine is ever likely to attain."

The Prince might have added that Lord Balfour's is an older English family than that of the Prince's. Balfour descends from Lord Burleigh, prime minister under Queen Elizabeth.

BRITISH newspapers praise Balfour's long, honorable career, and work done for his country.

His contributions to science are important. Some of them would shock our Fundamentalists. The best practical work he ever did for Britain was in connection with the United States Treasury.

HE DID another neat piece of work when, at the Washington conference, England being unable to compete with us in ships, Balfour persuaded our boy statesmen to junk our finest battleships, some not finished, thus saving Britain expense. Balfour is a statesman; ours are politicians, or pee-wees.

PARIS fashions for this fall demand "the silhouette." The woman whose outline closely imitates that of a lead pencil will be envied by others that stick out in front, back or at the sides. "A low belt and slight circular fullness, set in on the left side, all the rest lead pencil." That's what you must look like, ladies. Get your rubber suits, and begin to perspire—unless you have common sense.

FOR some, worry is a necessity. Here is something PERMANENT to worry about.

The earth is losing its speed. In the well-organized procession around our sun, the earth falls back.

The loss is slow, only one-hundredth part of a second each century. But time is long, the world is more than a thousand million years old, and will last hundreds of millions of years longer.

A hundredth part of a second every hundred years amounts to a great deal in ten million years. Figure it out, and WORRY.

LILLIAN LEITZEL, "queen of the flying trapeze," and Alfredo Cordona, brilliant gymnast, are married. They will continue in the circus, but they will NOT be the father and mother of circus prodigies. Their little boys probably will not be able to turn even one back somersault, and the girls will be afraid of the flying trapeze or any height. Wise nature thus prevents specializing through generations. Abraham Lincoln's son was president of the Pullman Car Company.

MR. RASKOB retires absolutely from General Motors, not having time for anything but politics. And General Motors wants its giant concern free from any political partisanship. Stock buyers agree with that idea apparently. General Motors stock went up yesterday.

THE biggest life insurance policy — $400,000,000 — is placed on 200,000 General Motors workers. Including sickness, life and accident, it seems overwhelmingly big, but $400,000,000 is only about one-tenth the value of General Motors stock.

Two hundred thousand workmen certainly represent more than 10 per cent of a concern's total value.

Identify Mystery Girl

The mystery girl of the morgue has been identified. This morning Joseph Sabala, his wife, Mary, and a daughter, Anna, identified the body as that of Agnes Sabala, 17, their daughter and sister.

It was the description of the mystery girl, as published in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph yesterday that made possible the identification, according to the dead girl's relatives, they having read the description in this newspaper.

According to the Sabalas, Agnes first left home at Buffington, Fayette county, last New Year's, coming to Pittsburgh where she obtained employment at 3272 Parkview avenue. She seldom wrote home and the last they saw her alive was last Easter when she returned for a short visit. The next they heard of her she was working at 5952 Phillips avenue. Some two weeks ago Agnes visited a sister, Nellie, employed at the Brownsville General Hospital. At that time she said she had been

Girl Raises 481 Quarts Berries On 1-20 Acre

RUTH E. KENNEDY, Butler county school girl, raised 481 quarts of strawberries on one-twentieth of an acre. That is four and two-thirds times the average yield of Pennsylvania commercial growers on a tract of equal size. Thomas Denniston, Butler county farmer, raised 547 bushels of potatoes on one acre, or four and one-half times the average commercial yield.

Butler county's remarkable agricultural achievements and other interesting developments there are described and illustrated in a page devoted to Butler in the next issue of the Pittsburgh Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

HEENEY EDGE 11½ POUNDS

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(INS.)—Tom Heeney, the New Zealand challenger, enjoyed a weight advantage of 11½ pounds over Gene Tunney, the champion, as the pair weighed in this afternoon at the Yankee Stadium, scene of their 15-round battle tonight for the world's heavyweight championship. The scales registered Heeney at the rather surprising figure of 203½ pounds. Tunney scaled 192. Their usual weights are, Tunney, 191; Heeney, 196.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 26.—After an overland flight, lasting a trifle more than two hours, Gene Tunney landed in the Hudson River this afternoon at 12:23 o'clock in the big amphibian plane that carried him here from Speculator, N. Y., to weigh in at 2 p. m. for his world heavyweight championship fight with Tom Heeney at the Yankee Stadium tonight.

The plane bearing the champion and his friends, W. O. McGeehan and C. V. Bobb, its owner, zoomed down the river from the north, arrived opposite the Columbia Yacht Club, then circled and landed, going up stream. The actual running time from Speculator, a crow-flight distance of some 250 miles, was two hours and fifteen minutes.

3 Children Bitten By Dog

A stray dog, believed suffering from rabies, bit three children at play in Juliet street, attacked another dog and snapped at Motorcycle Patrolman William Hugh, before he killed it this morning.

Dianade Ragnelly, 12, of 3247 Juliet street, was bitten on the left hand, William Donner, 9, of 504 Cato street, on the left leg, and Mable Arnold, 14, 3241 Juliet street, on the right leg. The dog that was bitten was owned by P. Lankinsky, 1 Edith place.

The injured children were treated by a nearby physician. Lankinsky's dog was sent to the Animal Rescue League for observation and the head of the other dog to West Penn Hospital for examination.

BIG SMITH VOTE DAY

Politics is stimulated and enthusiastic out in the produce district.

And they think favorably of "Al" Smith out there, too.

On the second day of machine voting, on one of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's straw vote machines, the boys around Nineteenth and Pike streets, right in the thick of the fresh fruit and vegetables, rolled up another tremendous vote for Smith yesterday.

Well, it was 354 to 22.

"Had a big crowd of Johnstown and Youngstown fellows in today," said Martin McTighe, of McTighe Brothers, produce merchants, where the machine is located. "They're wholesale producers, and, say, didn't they produce wholesale for Smith, though!"

TIE AT KENNYWOOD

On all the other machines, except one, the vote was a large one for Smith and not so large for Hoover. At Kennywood Park occurred one of those rare numerical feats—a tie vote. The Oakmont and Verona citizens were picnicking there.

To satisfy the call of out-of-town districts, the Pittsburgh Sun-Tele-

STEAL GIRL, HIT FATHER

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., July 26.—Police of a half-dozen Ohio Valley towns are searching for the bold abductors of Bertha Kasanovich, 15, of Aliquippa, who was dragged from the side of her father as they walked along an Aliquippa street, bundled into an automobile, beaten, assaulted and then thrown unconscious into the road near West Aliquippa.

Her abductors who beat the father, Joseph Kasanovich and knocked him from the running board of the machine when he went to the girl's aid, were described by him as being two sheiks.

Miss Kasanovich was suffering from a fracture of the skull and bruises about the face and body when picked up after being hurled from the speeding machine. Her condition was pronounced serious at the Rochester General Hospital.

1-Man-Car Service Spreads

The Pittsburgh Railways Company plans to extend the one-man car system, according to the report of the Traffic Conference Board sent to Council today by Charles A. Finley, the chairman.

A sharp decrease in revenues in 1928 makes it necessary for the company to take advantage of every means at its disposal to keep expenses within its earnings, according to the report, adding:

"This involves a more extended use of the one-man car and a general improvement in schedules."

AUTO COMPETITION

The reduction in revenues is blamed on "the industrial depression and lack of employment," and on the increasing use of busses and automobiles. During the first 194 days of 1928, the report states, the earnings were $454,003 under the same period in 1927 and $869,064 less than the same period in 1923, the year before the present agreement between the company and the city went into effect. There has been a reduction in the number of cars operated during the past year, but an increase in the use of one-man cars.

The report points out that under the present agreement the payment

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Pirates will depend on Burleigh Grimes to turn back the Giants in the third game of the series here this afternoon. Yesterday, Carmen Hill fell the victim to a two-run orgy of fluke homers on the part of the Giants, and the Pirates dropped their second game to the New Yorkers.

Grimes, who has won 15 contests for the Bucs so far this year against nine setbacks, blanked the Giants on his last appearance against them at the Polo Grounds.

Glenn Wright may be back at his shortstop berth in the place of the light-hitting Bartell this afternoon.

SEA FLIERS CRASH

International News Service.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 26.—A scant few minutes after taking the air today the huge Stinson-Detroiter monoplane "Greater Rockford" crashed to the ground, a mass of wreckage, in a cornfield west of the Rockford air port.

"Dead air" and insufficient lifting power to sustain the heavily loaded plane was the cause of the forced landing.

Bert Hassell, pilot, and his navigator and radio man, Parker Cramer, escaped from the wreckage only slightly bruised, but when Hassell sighted his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hassell, among the spectators, his emotional reserve was swept away. Tears of disappointment streamed from his eyes.

At dawn today Hassell and Cramer gracefully took off on the first leg of their 4,000-mile flight to Stockholm, Sweden. Upon gaining altitude after the take-off the fliers zoomed over the airport and dipped three times in honor of their backers and headed north:

Commenting on the ill-fated ship, Hassell said:

"We'll have the plane rebuilt

SHIP HITS ICEBERG; KRASSIN GOES TO AID

HAMBURG, July 26.—The Russian ice breaker Krassin today was standing by the Hamburg-South American liner Monte Cervantes at Bell Bay off Spitzbergen after the latter craft had struck an iceberg while en route to Spitzbergen.

The German liner has 1,500 passengers aboard but its damage is said not to be serious.

NO FARE INCREASE NOW

There has been no deficit since the agreement went into effect and, the report states, the intent is that "there shall be no attempt to increase car fare as long as this condition obtains."

The report was in aswer to a councilmanic resolution asking an inquiry into the number of cars in operation. This resolution was passed after Council had received numerous complaints of the street car service.

DROWNED GIRL IDENTIFIED

driven there in an automobile by a young man from Pittsburgh.

REFUSED TO GO HOME

While at Brownsville she borrowed some of her sister's clothes and these were the effects identified along with the body this morning. The boy who accompanied Agnes to Brownsville is not known. While at Brownsville, her sister urged Agnes to go home, but she refused and it is supposed she returned to Pittsburgh and was taken on the camping trip which ended last Monday evening with her drowning in the Allegheny River near Blawnox.

There were no tears when the father and mother and sister gazed upon the features of the dead girl. Emotion was there, but it was hidden, suppressed, and while the father was making his official statement at the morgue, the mother sat with hands tightly clasped and resting in her lap. Now and then she moved her lips, perhaps in silent prayer. About the only question she asked was, "Can we take her home?" Assurance that this was possible brought the only gleam into her eyes. So Agnes will go home to Buffington, with the funeral arrangements being made here by Frank Glodziak, her godfather, who also assisted in making the identification.

In bringing the case to the attention of parents, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph had the assistance of the authorities of the Brownsville General Hospital, who aided the paper in its efforts to find the girl's sister, employed there.

and ready for another flight within two weeks."

Cramer, describing the take-off and the forced landing, declared:

"We were grazing the tree-tops, the motor was functioning perfectly, but the plane refused to rise. There wasn't a breeze stirring."

In the crash the landing gear was broken, the propeller bent back, the left wing shattered, the right damaged by grazing the cornstalks and the fusilage broken. It was necessary to break the control wheel to extricate Hassell from the wrecked plane.

Rockford felt the tragedy of the air perhaps more than the two daring aviators. It was with pennies from the school children's pockets, hard earned "cash" from the town merchants, that the "Greater Rockford" was built.

Early in spring a fund was started for the flight and all were asked to contribute. The fund was oversubscribed.

The 40,000 Swedish-Americans in the Rockford area hoped that the flight would cement friendly relations between the two countries.

Although Hassell, through his tears, predicted the Greater Rockford would be rebuilt in a few weeks and the flight started again, Cramer was not as optimistic.

SMITH RAPS OWEN'S REASONS FOR BOLT

Says Senator Once Wooed Tammany He Now Condemns.

By RAMOND I. BORST.
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 26.—Gov. Al Smith today challenged the sincerity of former United States Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, in bolting the Democratic party to support Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate.

In a brief formal statement, the governor today called attention to the fact that during the historic Democratic convention of 1924, Senator came to him and pleaded with him to have the Tammany delegation support him as the party's presidential candidate.

"His hostility to Tammany Hall must have grown up in his heart in the last four years," the governor wrote in his statement. He said:

"Naturally I am sorry to see Senator Owen leave the Democratic party because of my nomination. However, he is a free American citizen and has the right to choose the party that best suits his ideas.

Gov. Smith also indicated today that he would discuss prohibition in every one of his campaign speeches in the presidential campaign.

Some of the national Democratic leaders are reported to have told the governor that it would be good politics for him to soft-pedal prohibition when he invades the Middle West and Far West, but he is said to have bluntly told them that he always has spoken his mind in political battles and he does not intend to change his tactics.

Hoover Foreign Policy to Refute Americanism Attacks.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 26.—Herbert Hoover will announce a foreign policy during the coming campaign so definitely pro-American as to stamp him a Rooseveltian American, with only the interests of his country at heart, it was learned today on excellent authority.

Accused of being an internationalist, an Anglophile and an American who knew his country only from car windows, Hoover will declare himself forcibly for a foreign policy, supporting and protecting American sovereignty in international affairs. The Republican nominee, it was said, will rid himself conclusively of the Wilsonian "tag" attached to him because of his association with the war-time President as food administrator.

Hoover will announce a broad foreign policy in his speech of acceptance here August 11. During the campaign he will take occasion to amplify his statements, so that his position will be clear to all the voters by election time.

Whether the nominee speaks specifically on each point or not in his acceptance speech, his views on international affairs were reported reliably to be as follows:

National defense—Hoover stands for a strong national defense, powerful enough to defend her against any and all enemies. In time of actual war, he believes in the drafting of all resources, as well as manhood, and the regulation of prices on essential commodities to prevent profiteering.

down as just another blast of the ballyhoo when the former champion failed to appear before the boxing commission this morning to apply for a second's license.

The commission had been called in special session on the strength of the promoter's declaration yesterday that Dempsey would appear and ask a temporary license to act as Heeney's adviser and chief second. The solons waited around for an hour or so and then adjourned, thus eliminating any prospect that the old Manassa mauler might be seen again in the same arena with the champion.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

GENE AIMS FOR KNOCKOUT

NEW YORK, July 26.—Gene Tunney will try to knock out Tom Heeney in the first round of their battle at the Yankee Stadium tonight.

The heavyweight champion of the world will follow the same plan of fighting that he carried into the ring against Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia a little less than two years ago. That night his first offering was a blasting right to the jaw that stopped the crowding Dempsey in his tracks and shook him on his toes and made him respect the then challenger. The surprize explosion came close to ending the fight right then and there, but Tunney chose to make a boxing match of it the remainder of the route and win well within himself in the 10 rounds.

At Chicago, last September, Tunney defending his title for the first time, again boxed his way to victory over Dempsey in 10 rounds.

Now Gene is back where he started, and he has decided to give Tom Heeney a dose of the medicine that signalized his introduction to Dempsey.

There are two reasons for Tunney's determination to score a quick and sensational knockout over the rugged Heeney—if it is in the wood. One is that, having established himself as a clever champion of parts, he wants to show the blood-thirsty boxing fans that he, too, can be a puncher when he wants to be. The other is to be found in the fact that tonight's fight promises to be a good-sized flop, financially, because the fans can't forget their rip-tearing Dempsey and won't accept a highly intellectual boxing champion in his place. Tunney rightly considers the slight of the fans as a reflection on himself, and he has come to realize that the best way to put himself in solid with the public that pays the freight is to drop his polished ways for the nonce and turn [illegible] become another so-called [illegible]ller."

I ha[illegible]ight from a close attache [illegible]nney advisory staff, who h[illegible]turned from Speculator, [illegible]re Tunney has done his training, that Gene will try to take Heeney in the first round, or the first two rounds. If he fails, he then will rest up for a round or two and contend himself with gradually cutting down the sturdy challenger. They are scheduled for 15 rounds, and will be in the ring not later than 10 o'clock, Pittsburgh time.

Even the day of the big fight fails to find the fans of the big town stirred up to concert pitch, and despite the forecast of a clear, cool evening, it is doubtful if the show will go over the top at the eleventh hour. The action of Promoter Rickard in cutting the price of 7,000 bleacher seats from $5 to $3 yesterday didn't cause more than a ripple of interest. The move was interpreted as a desperate step to drag $21,000 more into the box office to help meet the overhead of close to a million dollars, and the prediction was general that the prince of promoters would not get off the "nut" this time.

My impressions of the city (Pittsburgh) are gained from what I have read and heard about it, namely, that Pittsburgh is a leading metropolis with an enviable history and one of the greatest industrial and manufacturing centers of the world.

Sculpture and kindred arts unfortunately do not play a great part in American cities and communities for various reasons, the first of which, in my opinion, is a lack of public education and appreciation in things artistic.

The only effective remedy for this situation, in my opinion, would be the awakening of sufficient interest in the fine arts on the part of our National Government, and a realization that the encouragement and fostering of art is an important factor in the culture and advancement of the people to give it National recognition. When this is done there will be created a "Department of Fine Arts" in the Presidential Cabinet in the interest of all branches of art, which will inaugurate exhibitions under the auspices of the Government, and give National awards of merit.

DOCTOR HELD AS SLAYER OF WIFE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 26.—(AP.)—Dr. H. H. Hoffman, of Ashley, was formally charged today with the murder of his wife. A warrant was prepared in the district attorney's office and forwarded to state police barracks, where the physician has been a prisoner since last Sunday. He will be brought into court tomorrow morning for a preliminary hearing.

Frank P. Slattery, an attorney, issued a statement last night saying that a state policeman had told him that Dr. Hoffman had confessed to the murder. The statement says:

"While in Alderman Frank B. Brown's office this morning on another matter a state policeman in whom we have every confidence, told Alderman Brown and myself that the accused had confessed the crime; that the substance of the confessiod was that while the accused and his wife were lying in bed they talked about the wife's condition and that an arrival was expected in the family; that the accused expressed the desire that it would be a boy; that the wife informed him that he, the accused, was not the father; that this started an altercation; that subsequently the accused in great anger left the bed and first went to the bathroom, where he smoked a cigaret; then he went downstairs and armed himself with a hammer; that he went back to the bedroom with this instrument and took her life with repeated blows; that subsequnently he burned the hammer in the furnace in the basement; that the wooden handle was consumed in the fire and that he threw the iron portion of the hammer somewhere in the basement."

Slattery has withdrawn as Hoffman's counsel.

The statement adds:

"Sometimes confessions obtained from an accused after solitary confinement for several days and nights are not entirely voluntary, but are made simply to be relieved from the strain."

Channel Swimmer Near Goal

PORT PATRICK, Scotland, July 26.—(AP.)—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, who started from Donaghadee at 2:57 a. m. to swim the North Channel to the Scottish coast, was sighted 10 or 12 miles out from Port Patrick, directly west of the village, at 5:29 o'clock this afternoon.

Weather Conditions.

Thunderstorms with generous rains were quite general over Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Minnesota and parts of Texas. Elsewhere there was no rain reported except at scattered places in the Canadian provinces.

There was a rather general decrease in barometric pressure during the last 24 hours, and a weak low developed over the Middle Atlantic coast, while a more marked low developed over the Mississippi Valley states, with its center over Minnesota.

The temperature changes were slight.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere. Stage at Pittsburgh is 12.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.1, and Dam No. 6, 8.8 feet. The Ohio river dams were raised yesterday.

GIRL'S DROWNING MYSTERY CLEARED

FIGURES IN CASE

The mystery which surrounded the identity of the young woman who met death in the Allegheny River opposite the National Amusement Park near Blawnox was cleared today when she was identified by her parents as Agnes Sabola, Buffington, Pa. The above illustrations show the spot where the body came ashore, the woman, Mrs. Fred House, who witnessed the whole tragic affair, and the man, John Brown, who gave the clue which eventually led to establishing the girl's identity.

MANHOLE EXPLOSIONS PERIL SCORES

A lighted match dropped near a manhole at Diamond and Smithfield streets early this morning, is said to have caused a series of explosions which, before they had ended, sent three manhole covers hurtling into the air, burned one man and caused a panic among scores of men and women who were on their way to work.

The injured man is Maurice Stormer, 30, of 922 Freeland street, who was badly burned about the face and head by a sheet of flame which swept up from one of the manholes. Stormer was taken to Mercy Hospital in the motor patrol from Central Station. A passing pedestrian, who had a narrow escape, reported that he believes it was stormer who dropped the match.

TWO OTHER BLASTS

Only a few seconds elapsed following the first explosion when two other nearby manhole lids went hurling skyward. Eyewitnesses said that they seemed to go up about 30 feet before they fell with a crash to street and sidewalks. That none of the scores of persons passing at the time were crushed by the heavy metal covers is considered little short of miraculous. Passing motorists also had narrow escapes.

BLAST PROBED

A few hours after the explosion, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang sent this letter to all utilities companies in the city:

"We have had several explosions recently by reason of gas escaping from gas lines, finding its way into public utility manholes. May we request that you make an examination of all your manholes and where gas is found advise the gas company at once of that condition. Leaking gas lines may result in gas finding its way into all manholes of public utilities and to the end that this danger, an extreme hazard, may be entirely eliminated and the safety of the public assured, we feel sure you will co-operate in making the inspections and remedy, at the earliest time, this very dangerous condition."

Manhole Blast Victim Sues For $15,000

Hardly had the report of today's explosion died, when suit for $15,000 damages was filed against the City of Pittsburgh by Andrew McGraw. He alleges that his son, Andrew McGraw, Jr., 7, was seriously burned about the legs and thighs by a gas explosion that lifted a manhole-lid at Watson and Seneca street, August 1, 1926. The city was negligent, he alleges, in permitting gas to accumulate in the sewer.

NEW PARKING GUIDES DISTRIBUTED BY CITY

Burton W. Marsh, city traffic engineer, has announced that the Bureau of Traffic Planning has available for distribution the new 1928 Official Parking and One Way Street Guide, as well as the 1928 issue of the Tourist and Route Guide. Individual copies will be sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp and operators of fleets of trucks may obtain sufficient copies to meet their needs by calling at the office of the bureau, 908 City-County building.

LAKES GET COAL

NEW DEMANDS START MINES BOOMING

WASHINGTON, PA., July 26.—Substantial increase in coal production in the Monongahela valley field is indicated by announcement that the Shire Oaks yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the 16-hour working period ending yesterday had weighed and billed out 926 loaded cars of coal, establishing a new record for the yards.

Practically all the coal was consigned to the Great Lakes trade from the following companies: M. A. Hanna Company, Valley Camp Coal Company, Pittsburgh Coal Company, W. J. Rainey Company and the Pickens-Mather Company. Most of the coal, it as stated, comprised rush order shipments, which are expected to continue.

In addition the Nemacolin mine in Greene county, now announced to be in full operation, is consigning daily 125 cars of coal to the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, Youngstown, O. This solid trainload of coal, known as a "Hot Shot" consignment, is operated on a guaranteed time contract with the Pennsylvania, and is independent of the Shire Oaks yard clearance.

KELLOGG WILL SIGN PEACE PACT IN PARIS

PARIS, July 26.—(AP.)—The multilateral pact to outlaw war will be signed in Paris by Secretary Kellogg and the foreign ministers of the other signatory powers about August 28.

The French government's invitation to Mr. Kellogg to come to France is on its way to America, but it is understood at the foreign office that Ambassador Paul Claudel, as a result of his conversations with the American Secretary of State, has received in advance his definite promise to take part in the occasion.

August 28 is a tentative date which may be advanced or delayed a day or two to suit the convenience of the statesmen. Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, had intended to sail for home on August 29, but will now defer his sailing so as to return in the company of his chief.

Several Delicious Meals In a Good Ham!

Swift's Premium Skinned Hams lb. 28c

There's no better ham than a "Premium" and these skinned Premiums are worth several cents a pound more than a "regular ham" because the skin (waste) has been removed before you buy it. Boil it, bake it, fry a few slices and use what is left for sandwiches or cold cuts.

Fillet of Fresh Haddock lb. 18c

No bone—no waste whatever. Just solid strips of pearly meat of delicate flavor. Fresh from the sea. One of the most popular varieties—one of the most easily prepared. Bake in the oven and allow a lump of butter to melt over it just before serving.

Old Virginia Style Baked Ham Center Cuts lb. 65c

Baking the McCann way adds so much in flavor to the natural savor of these carefully selected hams. Tenderness is assured and the evenly cut center slices make attractive services for cold lunches and are ideal for making sandwiches. There is no other baked ham like McCann's.

Pecan Loaf Cake lb. 48c

A Cake of the "pound" variety, heavily iced with marshmallow icing and covered with crisp fresh pecans. A favorite!

For Salad Combinations! Silver Bell Cream Cheese 2 pkgs. 25c

The nicest flavored cream cheese we ever tasted! That's why we recommend it so highly. Made of whole milk with cream added. Rich, smooth, tasty.

"Canoe Club" Sliced Pineapple 3 large cans 73c

Luscious Hawaiian fruit that will make a variety of tempting desserts. In extra heavy syrup—strictly a "fancy" pack. Average about eight thick slices to the can.

Fresh From the Roaster! Favorite Coffee 3 lbs. $1

Skillful blending and fresh roasting gives Favorite its exquisite flavor. Our big roasting plant on our third floor turns out tons and tons of it. Then our second floor packing plant sends it to the counters where you receive it. Always fresh; the flavor hasn't a chance to escape.

"Perfect" Butter Sets the Pace lb. 53c

—in quality—in price—in performance. When you speak of quality butter in any company, everyone thinks of "Perfect." That's the way it has been for years—the way it will be for years to come. A taste will tell you more than a volume of words.

Shellwhite Fresh Eggs, doz. 47c

Quality only was considered when we "discovered" Shellwhites. We located the largest, whitest, cleanest eggs produced and then placed our own name on them. Fresh-from-the-nest quality has won a following of thousands in a few short months.

Plump Frying Chickens, ca. $1.15
Split Ready For The Pan

Freshly dressed young chickens that have been fed specially for table use. Plump and meaty—an excellent chicken for the evening dinner.

Cantaloupes 2 for 25c

Jumbos—only 27 can be crowded in a large crate. Thick meated—luscious—of excellent flavor. Genuine California Turlocs.

POLICE SEIZE CLUB LOOTER SUSPECTS

Believed by police to be members of a gang which has been breaking into clubs and saloons and stealing slot machines, John Miller, 26, of 11 Brightridge street, and Harold Hollis, 21, of 870 Vista street, were arrested today, after Patrolman John Haas had discovered several men at the rear of the saloon of John Kantner, 620 East Ohio street. Miller was arrested at the time, but his companions fled and Hollis was arrested later. Police were searching for the others.

The men were discovered in Emlin way in the rear of the saloon and all but Miller fled when the officer approached. The rear door of the saloon was found open and a jimmy was on the sidewalk, near a machine parked there. From information obtained from Miller, Hollis was arrested. Both were arraigned before Magistrate E. M. Hough this morning and held over.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE THING THAT COUNTS

By ERIC HEATH.

ALICIA'S betrothal to Charles W. Paterson received the hearty approval of her entire family and of her friends. In fact, she herself seemed to be the only one who wasn't completely satisfied.

"And yet, I don't see why I shouldn't be," she argued with herself. "It's certainly what they call a 'suitable' match. Charles is the right age, of a fine family, a millionaire. And he surely is handsome. Everyone agrees about that. He's no stupid, either, because if he didn't have brains, he couldn't manage his father's business the way he does. Oh dear, I don't know—I suppose it's just my restless temperament—I don't know what I want."

"Is it right for me to marry Charles, feeling the way I do?" she demanded of herself. "Is it because I don't love him? Then, shouldn't I tell him so? But that would be such a ridiculous thing to do, when mother and father and everyone are counting on the wedding. No, I'll just have to go on."

Outwardly, she showed no signs of mental struggle. Her friends all took it for granted that she must be in the seventh heaven of delight over the entire affair.

A week before the wedding, Charles called Alicia on the phone from his office.

"I'm sending my secretary, Dwight Phillips, up with some samples of silverware, dear," he told her. "I want you to look them over, and choose the style you like."

"But, Charles," she protested, "you are giving me the pearl necklace for a wedding present."

"I know, but I want to give you the silverware, too," he replied. "It will just be a little extra gift, you see."

"What an old dear he is!" she thought, as she hung up the receiver.

In a few moments, a tall, slender young man was ushered in. He bowed to Alicia as the maid withdrew. Alicia motioned him toward a chair.

"It seems strange," he began, "but I don't believe I've ever had the pleasure of meeting you before, Miss Dixon, although I have been Mr. Paterson's secretary for a long time."

"No. I've heard such tales about the hardships of business, that I've been scared away," Alicia responded, lightly. "Is your office such a formidable place?"

"On the contrary," he returned. "It's—well, I suppose it's much the same as other offices."

He told her a little about his work, but Alicia found that she was not listening attentively. Instead, she was studying him. There was something very boyish and appealing about his personality, she decided. It seemed odd to her that he should hold a position, which, after all, couldn't really amount to so very much. This thought was just passing through her mind, when, as if in answer to it, he explained:

"I'm hoping to give all my time to music, some day. I love it. It's the one thing for me. But you know how it is—I've had to make my way, and I've never had a chance to study much. It costs a great deal, in time and money, before one can launch on a musical career."

"I suppose so," she murmured.

Suddenly he flushed and said:

"I do beg your pardon for talking on and on like this, about myself. I'm sure I don't know why I began, but—well, it's quite unusual for me to have a sympathetic listener."

"He's terribly lonesome," Alicia decided. "And no doubt he's shy and 'different' and doesn't make friends easily."

He spread out the samples of silverware on a small table that stood between them.

"These are the ones Mr. Paterson thought you might be interested in."

Alicia glanced at the samples. Several were exquisite, and ordinarily, she would have been thrilled at the thought of being able to choose the pattern which most appealed to her. But now she found it difficult to keep her mind on the subject. As Dwight Philips bent over the table, arranging the pieces, she found that she was looking at him, not at them. She liked the way his hair parted. He was not nearly as handsome as Charles, but nevertheless, she was conscious of a trembling desire to lean over and kiss his tanned cheek. She caught herself up, sharply.

"Whatever is the matter with me!" she admonished herself mentally.

After he had gone, Alicia felt almost as if a magic spell had been cast over her.

"I must see him again," she concluded. "Just once more. Then—never."

An opportunity presented itself unexpectedly. It had been arranged for Charles to meet her and have lunch with her at a little Bohemian cafe which often served them as a downtown place of rendezvous. As Alicia sat at one of the small tables in a private booth, waiting, she happened to glance out, and saw Dwight Philips enter. He looked around, and when his gaze met hers, she smiled and beckoned to him. He came over.

"Mr. Paterson is very sorry, but an important business meeting came up at the last moment, and he sent me here, to tell you he won't be able to meet you. He was afraid you might not get the message by phone."

"I'm very glad he sent you," Alicia said, with a slight accent on the last word. "Sit down."

"I'm not sure that I should," he said.

"Why not?" she demanded.

"Well—" He flushed under her challenging gaze.

For a long time they both were silent. They did not speak until the waiter had taken their order and withdrawn. Then she spoke rapidly.

"I wanted to see you again."

"I'm glad of that," he returned, but he made his tone carefully casual.

"Did you—want to see me?" She waited for him to answer, and when he did not, she prompted: "Tell me—did you?"

"Of course!" he cried. "But I thought it would be better not to."

"Why?"

"Because you are Charles Paterson's fiancee."

"But not his wife."

"You will be—soon."

"Perhaps not. It's not too late, you know, to find out I've made a mistake—"

He raised his head, and looked into her face searchingly.

"Then I have the right to tell you, Alicia—I thought I never would. I've—I don't know what's the matter with me, but—I think it must be that I've fallen desperately in love, for the first time. Ever since I saw you—why I haven't been able to think of anything but you. It sounds crazy—"

"No, I understand," she returned, softly. 'For I have felt it, too."

She reached her hands across the table to him, and he gripped them so tightly in his that she felt an exquisite, aching pain.

"Alicia!" His grasp relaxed suddenly. "You'll be giving up a lot—money—position. I—why, I have practically nothing. I'm just struggling along, trying to make something of my music . . ."

Her eyes were dreamy and she drew his hands closer, as she answered:

"Yes, I'll be giving those things up. But don't let that worry you, dear. They mean so little. I can give them up without a regret, now that I have found the one thing that really counts."

She heard them whisper:
"B.O."
(Body Odor)

How the most unpopular girl in the office became the favorite

FOR a moment she was stunned. It came so suddenly—so unexpectedly. She had smiled at Grace and Edith as she passed them. Why did they always act so cooly toward her, she wondered. Then above the click of the typewriters came the whispered words—"B. O."

Body odor! And they meant her! So that was why she was unpopular. So that was why the men and girls in the office never wanted her around.

This happened a few months ago. Today Margaret is the office favorite. Now her natural attractiveness and sparkling personality are unspoiled by the gravest of social offences—"B.O."

Now easy to end body odor

Nothing can ruin our chances of social and business success more quickly than body odor. The faintest hint of it destroys all our attractiveness—and turns people against us.

Yet no one is safe from body odor. We must perspire—or we'd die. Even on cool days our pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours.

Our own sense of smell soon becomes deadened to this unpleasant odor. But how shockingly noticeable it always is to others.

Yet there's a simple way to keep safe—a way so delightful that millions rely on it—Lifebuoy. Just wash and bathe regularly with this purifying toilet soap. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather deodorizes all pores—keeps you fresh.

Keeps complexions healthy

This same gentle, antiseptic lather is wonderful for the skin. By purifying face pores, it keeps complexions radiantly fresh and clear. Makes them glow with health. Lifebuoy also guards against disease, by removing germs.

Note its clean scent!

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

Coming and Current Attractions in Theaters Recorded Beside Gossip About Photoplays and Stars

Dolores Del Rio Is to Make "Good Will" Tour of Europe On Visit Extending Into 1929

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.

AT THE glitteringly brilliant party given by Dolores Del Rio Saturday evening it was learned that the star of Mexico will sail for Europe August 18. But it is planned that she leave Hollywood the end of this week, for Dolores has never seen either New York or Chicago, and she believes in seeing America first.

The European trip will continue right into 1929. There are 14 countries in the itinerary and before she returns Dolores will have been presented in every capital of the old world. No less a personage than Joseph M. Schenck, emperor of United Artists, will act as a sort of master of ceremonies in many cities. Mr. Schenck is now abroad and he is arranging for the star's reception in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome and other world capitals. London is the first stop, and from there travel will be almost exclusively by airplane.

The tour itself is in the nature of a "good will" visit. No pictures will be produced. All the time will be spent establishing a firmer friendship with the movie fans of the world. It may truly be said that Dolores' jaunt about the continent is in the nature of a visit to the film enthusiasts. The party consists of Miss Del Rio, her producer-director, Edwin Carewe; her mother, Mrs. Anunsolo, and Harry Wilson, who is the personal representative of both star and producer. Of course there will be the usual entourage of maid, secretary, and so on. There has been no definite decision as to which of several stories Dolores will first produce upon her return.

According to Jack Pickford the thing to do for a weak heart is to take a long airplane flight. In any event, Jack, but recently out of a hospital, has taken the air route to New York, which he thinks is the ideal spot for rest and recuperation.

The second generation of screen players keeps coming right along. The very latest arrival is the brand-new daughter of Eva Novak. Off-screen Eva is Mrs. William Reed. She and her hubby left a year ago for a stay in Australia. The new baby, Pamela, was born in Honolulu. Pamela has a sisted named Vivian, aged three.

Movies may come and movies may go but "The Lone Wolf" and Bert Lytell seem to go on forever. The latest firm to exploit the prowess of the beloved crook character created by Louis Joseph Vance, will be titled "The Lone Wolfe's Daughter." Now that they've left the family in there's no telling how far this thing will go. We may yet have "The Lone Wolf's Son-in-Law," "The Lone Wolf's Grandchild," and so on. Not to mention his sisters and his cousins and his aunt Bert Lytell has a steady job.

George Stewart, Anita's brother, is receiving double sympathy. Not only do the doctors say that George hasn't long to stay in this world, but they refuse to permit him to make use of the marriage license which was to unite him with Marie Callahan, of the Broadway stage. It had been arranged to have the ceremony performed with no one present but the immediate family and Leatrice Joy. But that's all off now. And Marie has been recalled to New York and rehearsals.

By the time Walter Hiers returns to Hollywood from his vaudeville tour, Ben Turpin will have left on a similar errand. Ben still remains the recipient of one of Hollywood's biggest fan mails.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

ONE of our over-married American girls is all geared up to grab another title.

Titles are much in demand among the ultra - shrinking violets just now. Millionaires are easy picking but a title is a fish on another hook.

This little lady is already an imperial countess and you can find her name just outside the Almanac de Gotha. But she wants to be a duchess, which is just slightly inferior to a king or a company sergeant.

Now, if one of our girls wants to be a duchess neither Congress nor the American Express Company can stop her. The only one who can stop it is the duke.

But it seems the duke wants to become marriaged up to her and is only waiting his present wife's consent.

He will be our pet's seventh husband.

Gosh, think of how many years he must have been standing in line.

There is a great rush to see who can marry the most titles and to see who can place the most marriage certificates among the battle flags of the republic.

Getting married a few dozen times is O. K. Think of all the gifts you get. Also the alimony rushing in from all sides.

The alimony budget ain't bad. It keeps piling up.

In fact, alimony is very nice. Alimony is the honyemoon of divorce.

More married folks would be happier if alimony were co-operative.

This little girl generally falls in love at first sight while she is endorsing cigarets blindfolded. But she is a sweet thing and if she lives long enough she will grab more men than were secured by the National Draft Act in 1917.

Knowing her habits, we hope she becomes the duchess, and knowing her habits, we know that she will become the duchess.

Also, knowing her habits, we know the best wishes we can give her, and wishes she will appreciate, we wish her a happy and short seventh married life.

SOME OF OUR FRIENDS -:- IN DRAMA -:- SILENT AND SPOKEN

Mary Astor is the heroine of "Sailors' Wives," which will be on the screen in Grand next week.

Joseph Thayer, who will be seen in the Nixon in "Polly With a Past."

Mabel Kroman, of the George Sharp Players, whose next Pitt play, a drama, will be "Nightstick."

Syd Chaplin's new comedy, "Skirts," is coming to the screen of Penn.

Helene Costello heads the cast of "Lights of New York," talking movie booked for Stanley.

AMUSEMENTS CARDED

Seats are on sale today in the Nixon box office, for "Polly With A Past," a comedy in three acts, which the Nixon players will present in the Nixon next week. Marguerite Merrill and Harry Banniater will play lead roles.

There are four elaborate settings in "Nightstick," drama announced for presentation by the George Sharp Players at the Pitt next week. Olive Meehan will have the leading feminine role. Seats are on sale today.

"Lights of New York," to be seen and heard in the Stanley next week, is a melodrama of mystery, murder and love. Helene Costello plays the leading role in this picture in which all characters speak their "lines." Culen Landis is featured.

An added feature of next week's stage show in the Penn, and for three weeks thereafter, will be the appearance of Pittsburgh's "Personality Girl," winner of the opportunity contest now in progress in that theater. "Miss Personality" will be selected Friday evening, from among the four girls who have survived the semi-finals.

Burr McIntosh, veteran actor, appears in "Sailors' Wives," coming to the Grand next week, in support of Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes. The photoplay is a screen version of Warner Fabian's novel.

On the stage the last half of the week in the Harris are Fred Heider and "The Dream Girl." The photoplay feature is "Stormy Waters." Eve Southern and Malcolm MacGregor are its principal players.

With their saxophones and comedy, the Six Brown Brothers are the headliners in the Sheridan Square the last half of the week. The photoplay is "Stormy Waters," with Eve Southern.

PLANE BREMEN AT LAST TO BE TAKEN FROM ISLE

QUEBEC, July 26.—(AP.)—Marooned for more than three months near the bleak Labrador Coast, the famous monoplane Bremen, the first to cross the North Atlantic from East to West, at last is to be brought back to civilization.

The steamer North Shore is sailing today for Blanc Sablon, Quebec., where the Junkers plane that crashed in a forced landing on Greenly island on Friday, April 13, will be taken on board and brought back here.

Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, leader of the Bremen expedition has commissioned the North German Lloyd to transport his broken plane back to Germany.

First, however, it will be exhibited here, under permission granted by the baron, by Dr. Louis Cuisinier, a member of the first rescue party to reach Greenly island.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh Loses Charming Girl as Helene Hostetter Becomes Bride at Pasadena, Cal.

PITTSBURGH society has lost another of its attractive girls with Helene Hostetter's marriage to a California man yesterday. Of course the Hostetters haven't spent much time here, anyway, for the past few years, but we have liked to think of them as Pittsburghers, just the same, since they made their home in Fifth avenue for so many years. They have an apartment in New York, you know, where they usually spend the spring and fall, and their winters are always spent out in Pasadena, where Helene's mother, Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter, maintains a home.

Helene married John Stevenson Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tomlinson Griffith, of Los Angeles, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Pasadena, with the Rev. John Davidson, rector of St. John's Church in Los Angeles, as the officiating clergyman. And the young Tomlinsons are going to live in Columbia street, South Pasadena. They will take a trip, of course, and expect to be at the Columbia street address after September 1, I understand.

D. Herbert Hostetter, Jr., who lives in Flint Ridge, Cal., gave his sister away. She wore a charming gown of ivory satin and old Spanish lace. Her veil was of lace, too, and fell from a cap of rose point lace. She carried a shower of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

One Pittsburgh girl, Priscilla Hall, was included in the bridal party, and the others were Mrs. Betty McAlpine, Gertrude Macy and Louise Macy, of Pasadena. They were all dressed alike, in ultramarine blue chiffon with big leghorn hats trimmed with blue and yellow. They carried Claudius Pernet roses.

William Howard Griffith was his brother's best man and the list of ushers included John Scott, J. Rowlett Williams, Harrison Drummond, Morgan C. Adams and William Marshall Garland, of Los Angeles, and Helene's other brother, Frederick G. Hostetter, of Far Hills, N. J.

The ceremony was performed before an altar banked with Japanese gold and pink lilies, blue delphinium, pink roses and other flowers, and after the service there was a reception at the home of the junior D. Herbert Hostetters.

Helene has spent so much of her time in Pasadena that she has become an integral part of the social life out there. She is a member of the Pasadena Junior League and also of the Spinsters' Club, but her marriage automatically cancels that latter membership. Mr. Griffith is a "native son," and he is a member of the Los Angeles Bachelors' Club.

IT would be interesting to know just why the season is beginning so early this year. September, as a rule, is not a particularly popular month for social events, but we have one debut date, Louise Evans', set for that month, and now I hear of another, a dinner dance for two Sewickley buds. The Christian Ihmsen Shannons, of Broad street, Sewickley, are going to be hosts at the party, which will be given September 21 in the Allegheny Country Club. The guests of honor will be Margaret Morris Holdship, daughter of the Charles Frederick Holdships, whose name has been added to the list of next winter's debutantes, and Virginia Willock, daughter of the Frank Scott Willocks, who came out at a garden party in June.

ONE of the girls who had tentatively planned to make her debut in the fall has decided to postpone it for a year, I understand. She is Harriet Fickes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fickes, of Woodland road. The Fickes family is going to sail the middle of August for a trip abroad.

LASALLE Dorrance, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance, of South Negley avenue, who has been visiting Ruth Seymour, daughter of the Walter F. Seymours, of Providence, at their summer home at Nayatt Point, Rhode Island, for the past three weeks, has joined her father and mother at their summer place on the Foxburg road. They will be there for the balance of the season.

MR. AND MRS. J. B. HETHERINGTON and their three children, of South Dallas avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hetherington and Miss Ruth Hetherington, of Jancey street, are spending the summer at their cottage at Ocean City, N. J.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT EDSON LOGAN, of Northumberland street, have made known the marriage of their daughter, Miss Louise Logan, and John Edward Brownell, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in the East Liberty Presbyterian Church by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison. A breakfast in the Logan home followed the ceremony. After a motor trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Brownell will be at home in this city. The bride is a Winchester School girl and attended Wellesley. Mr. Brownell was graduated from Dartmouth in 1925.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made by John A. Schaulis, of Washington, Pa., of the marriage of his sister, Miss Rebecca Braden, and John E. Cary, son of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Cary, of Washington, which was solemnized Monday at Columbus, O. The bride is a granddaughter of the late John McKeown, of Washington, and was graduated from the Washington Seminary and the National Park Seminary. Mr. Cary is completing his work at the Washington and Jefferson summer school. They will live in Washington.

MR. AND MRS. A. L. LONDON, of Bartlett street, who are spending the summer at their cottage in Ventnor, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Adele N. London, to Morris I. Freedman, son of Samuel Freedman, of Dallas, Tex. An autumn wedding is planned.

MR. AND MRS. RALPH H. THOMAS, of Singer place, have returned from a trip in the East, having visited in Monroe, N. Y., Atlantic City, and with Mr. and Mrs. Ian Forbes at Conshohocken, Pa. Last week they spent at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin A. Hill, of McPherson boulevard, at Huntingdon, Pa.

FOREST HILLS WOMEN ISSUE NEW YEAR BOOK

ONE of those most convenient of year books with graduated pages has just been issued to members of the Forest Hills Woman's Club and within its covers there is promise of much that is good for the coming season. "The Art of Living" is the general topic under which a variety of talks and events will be given. Mrs. N. W. Storer will speak at the opening meeting (September 20) on "Keeping One's Youth" and this session will be followed on the 29th by a steak fry at Bright Glen. Dr. Heber D. Curtis, of Allegheny Observatory, will visit the club to talk on "Around the World to Observe a Solar Eclipse" at the October meeting and in November Mrs. Charles Morris Johnson, former chairman of home economics in the Congress of Clubs, will tell of "The Psychology of Living With Other Folks." The Rev. Frank E. Smith, associate pastor of the First Unitarian Church, is to be the speaker in December, his subject being announced as "The Art of Understanding Crime and the Criminal." A reception for the president and a musicale will feature the January session; current events will be discussed in February and the following month Dr. J. H. James, of Carnegie Tech, will speak on "Recent Advances in Scientific Chemistry." The spring tea is dated for April 18 when the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty will be the speaker. A luncheon at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel together with a book review are on the list for May 16, a porch party on June 20 closing the season.

PROGRAMS of interest have been prepared for next season's monthly meetings of the Keystone Chapter, Daughters of American Pioneers, the season opening October 18 with a "summer reminiscences" program in the Shannopin Country Club. Mrs. R. D. Beardsley, the retiring regent, will be hostess for the November "honor day" when papers will be presented on Thanksgiving and Armistice Day. A Christmas party in the City Club will be held Saturday, December 15, and at the January meeting in the home of Mrs. E. L. Glasser, "The Eighteenth Amendment" will be discussed. "Pennsylvania Musicians," a paper by Mrs. C. V. Van Winkle, will be illustrated by Mrs. Frank P. Sumney at a musicale in Mrs. Thomas P. Fleeson's home, which will be the February event. Mrs. Samuel Black McCormick will speak on "Pittsburgh Churches" in March, the meeting to be with Mrs. J. H. Musgrave. In April the members will convene in the Children's Hospital and will make donations to it, discussing as their program for the day, "Pittsburgh Hospitals and Their Founders." Old industries as well as new will be treated of at a "Pittsburgh Day" round table in May. The outing in June will close the season.

ALPHA IOTA, active and alumnae chapters of Alpha Delta Pi fraternity will have a bridge luncheon at the Pines on Saturday afternoon, August 4 at 1 o'clock. The affair is in the hands of the social committee composed of Miss Martha Klein, Mrs. Robert Braun, Jr., and Miss Gladys Willock. Miss Genevieve Quay is president of the active chapter and Miss Lorena Orr, of the alumnae chapter. Reservations are being made through Miss Mary Bigham, Fordham street.

DR. WILLIAM M. DAVIDSON, a member of the Criterion Club, and his daughter, Miss Helen Davidson, are touring Yellowstone Park, after having attended the N. E. A. convention in Minneapolis. Mrs. Davidson also a Criterion member, is remaining at home this summer.

Club Thief Ruins Hole-in-One Chances

There will be fewer holes in one at the Pittsburgh Country Club today.

Early today somebody forced a window of the clubhouse in Beechwood boulevard, made his way to the locker room and departed with clubs and balls valued at $300.

When Tunney Steps into the Ring Tonight

GENE TUNNEY, heavyweight champion of the world, will be in the peak of condition when he steps into the ring tonight to defend his title against Tom Heeney, pride of the British Isles.

Generous use of milk has served to keep Tunney from training down too fine in his long drill to reach top condition.

He weighed 197 pounds but after a hard workout he was five pounds lighter or the exact weight he planned to carry when he steps into the ring tonight.

Tunney restored the five pounds he lost in the ring every day by drinking three pints of milk after each session.

Athletes and keen business men alike recognize the value of milk as a strength and health builder.

Harmony Milk is naturally pure and always the freshest possible. It will build strength and health in you too!

WORSTED THREE TIMES RAILROAD TAKES APPEAL

An appeal to the Supreme Court was taken yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from the verdict of $27,500 awarded Rose Murphy, Greensburg, by a jury in Common Pleas Court recently. Miss Murphy, crippled by a wreck at Homewood Junction, obtained at a former trial a verdict for $35,000. A new trial resulted in the $27,500 verdict. The late Attorney Rody P. Marshall had represented Miss Murphy, and on the day he died the lower court refused the railroad a second new trial. In the latest action the Supreme Court is asked to set aside the verdict.

It Lifts Your Spirit

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The vigor of a March wind carries you along with a light heart. Spring is approaching and the world seems gay and hopeful.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

It's great for your spirit but hard on your skin. Every gust of wind ruthlessly plants tiny particles of dust in your pores, taxes the naturally smooth texture. Your most precious skin is constantly exposed to these harsh effects.

But you can erase the inroads upon beauty with a little care and the right help, which I spent years to find.

I call this help my Facial Youth. It is a liquid cleanser which soothes the skin and actually removes the dust and grime which are so destructive. Soap and water merely cleanse the surface, and have a coarsening effect.

Facial Youth does not grow hair. It has a clean, fresh odor. It's a pleasure to use this gently soothing cleanser. I know of nothing which does more to retain youthful firm smoothness of face.

May I urge you, for beauty's sake, to buy a bottle at any toilet counter? The price is 75 cents. Your money back if you are not satisfied.

COURT DISSOLVES CAR AND BRIDGE COMPANIES

Judge Elder W. Marshall signed a decree in Common Pleas Court yesterday dissolving the Coraopolis and Neville Island Bridge Company. The bridge, which had become inadequate, has been replaced by spans taken from the old Sixth Street Bridge. At the time this was done the county took over the old bridge and discontinued the taking of tolls. Dissolution of the Homestead and Mifflin Street Railway Company, with offices at 805 Amity street, Homestead, was also granted by Judge Marshall.

a touch of early fall in stitched crepe hats

$5 to $12.50

Decidedly new and comprehending all the phases of sports millinery. We mention crepes—they're so altogether smart, but just as chic are the new transparent stitched velvets—clever pastel tones for summer or for early fall. The medium brim and high front type are found in white, orchid, green, blue, beige and flesh—some draped low with popular "chou" effect over the ear. At $5 to $12.50.

SUMMER MILLINERY CLEARED

$2.50 to $13.50 were former prices.

No question about the completeness of this clearance—excepting only the French Room Millinery (and they, too, are drastically reduced), all the summer stocks grouped on tables at these three prices. Tomorrow, $1, $2 and $3.

new low priced sweaters smart for summer wear

$2.95

This new lot will add to the growing popularity of the sweater-skirt ensemble. So many clever styles to choose from—in plain pastel colors, horizontal stripings, plain white, lacy weaves and mixtures. Many combined with rayon and others of gossamer like woolens, ideal for summer comfort. Sizes for women and misses. Special at $2.95.

separate bodice top skirts

$2.95 $3.95 $4.95 $5.95

Splendid silk skirts in a pleasing variety of pleated styles—with bodice tops. Pastels and deeper shades to match the sweaters.

donegal rug travel coats

$69.50 $89.50 $110

Probably you know the beauty and quality of Donegal rugs—woven by Irish weavers—of exquisite texture and softness. These rugs are distinctive—even the fringe is used as a smart trimming touch.

They are swagger for sports wear—smart for street wear—just the coat for travel, motor and steamer wear. Ideal for the college campus.

The blending of their colors is marvelously ingenuous. Plaids of dignity and yet with a youthful snap that reflects their unerring style distinction. Each coat is individual. The furs that trim them are smartly applied in cuffs alone or with collar and cuffs in several style collars. They are quite apart from the usual.

NEW SPORT COATS FROM $39.50 UP.

SIX GIFTS SET RECORD FOR MILK FUND

A record in the number of gifts to The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund is established today with six on the list.

So far this season they have come in pairs and threes and even fours, but, until today, never more than that. Together these half dozen bring the fund to a total of $841.63. Three donations, those from the Welfare Circle of Avalon, the Castle Shannon Methodist Protestant Sunday school and Auntie Nestle's class of the German Evangelical Protestant Church are each of $10. Four Greenfield girls, Mabel, Myrtle and Grace Wynn and Dorothy Strong contribute $2.12; Mrs. E. L. Carter is the donor of $2 and the remaining gift is from South Aiken avenue children. These little people, Ruth, Alexander Gordon, Sally and Ray Black and Dick and J. R. Friday, gave a play which was their means of raising $4.80 for the fund.

And so it grows—this fund which is to put vitality into ailing little bodies and to build a stronger citizenry for Pittsburgh's future.

"Now! I am right—"

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

"FORTUNATELY, I found myself in time. I was going down! down! down! I didn't want to eat; there was no desire for it. My muscles were getting flabby—I tired easily. Many a morning I would get up after a sleepless night feeling that I could hardly pull through the day. I was also troubled with those annoying so-called skin troubles. Then, one day a friend urged me to give S.S.S. a trial. Before finishing the first bottle, I could see I was improving. That was only a few weeks ago. Today I feel more like myself than I have in years."

Loss of appetite is only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that nourish and sustain the body.

When you get your red blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. proven record over 100 years

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefit in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

Made only from the fresh vegetable drugs gathered at the proper season of the year, S.S.S. gives to Nature what she needs in making you yourself again.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

From youth to later years S.S.S. is a proven tonic—give it and take it when a tonic is indicated.

FIXED BAYONET KEEPS CROWD FROM NOBILE

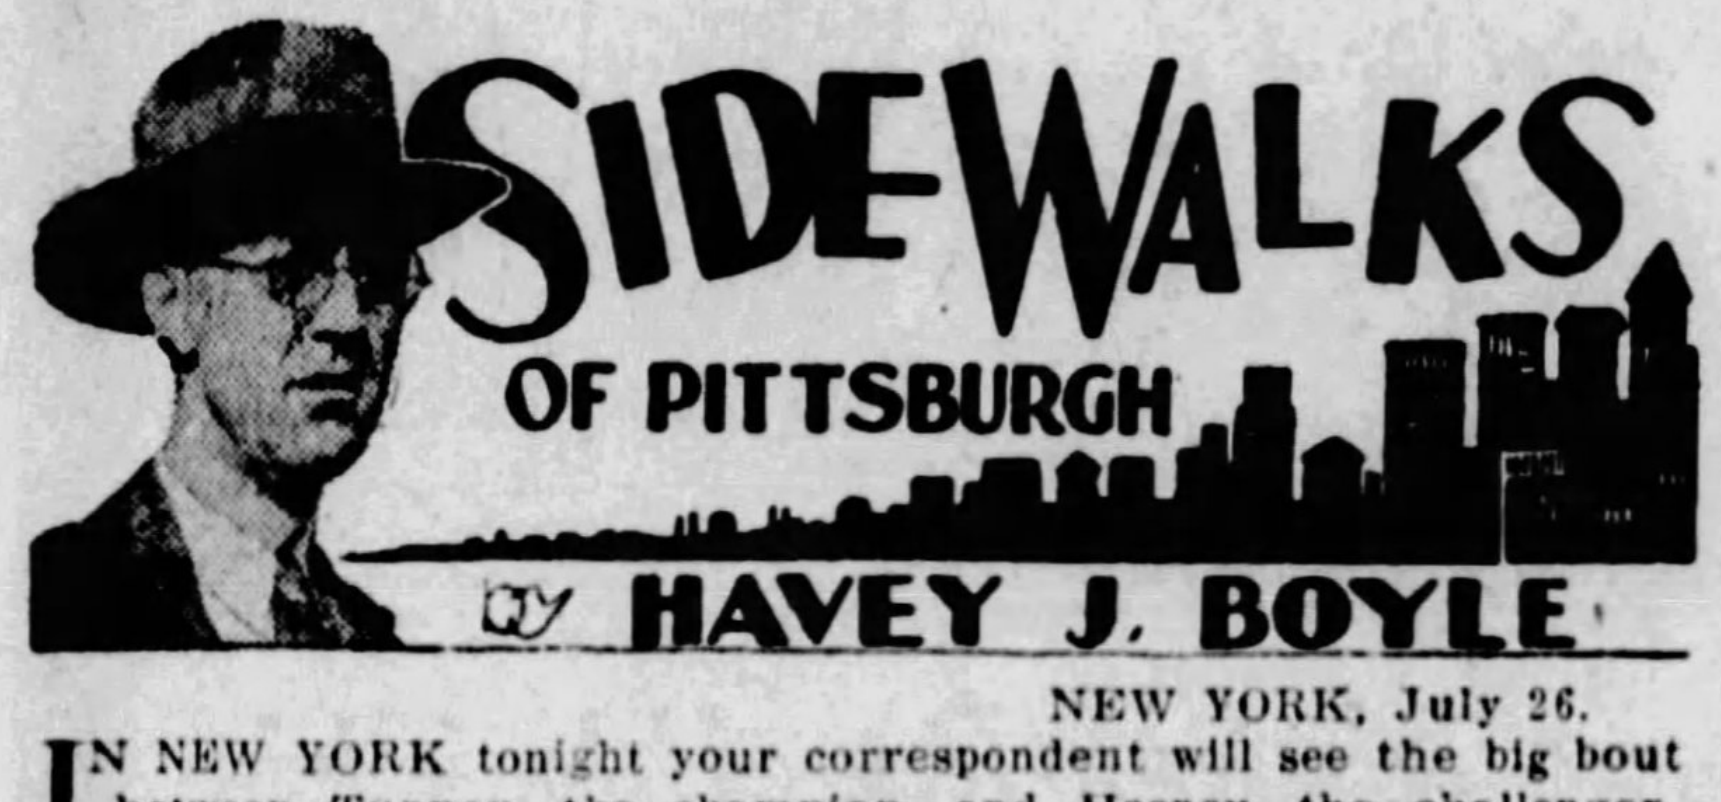
OSLO, Norway, July 26.—(AP.)—A seaman with fixed bayonet was placed on guard at the gangplank of the Citta Di Milano today when the vessel docked at Narvik with the survivors of the Italia disaster. On lookers at the docks regarded this move with astonishment.

When the ship arrived early this morning comparatively few people were on hand although many had waited for it until late last night.

When the mooring rope was thrown ashore no assistance was forthcoming in fastening the rope and one of the crew of the Italian ship had to jump ashore to do it.

No Norwegian authorities were present on the quay. A representative of the Italian legation at Stockholm greeted the survivors and three Swedes who had taken part in the sledge expedition to search for Roald Amundsen's missing party.

The spectators had a glimpse through a port hole of Gen. Umberto Nobile's dog Titina. As soon as the ship's crew observed this the porthole was immediately covered. The guard was stationed as soon as the gangplank was lowered.



NEW YORK, July 26.

IN NEW YORK tonight your correspondent will see the big bout between Tunney, the champion, and Heeney, the challenger. You must look elsewhere (the sporting page) to discover what we think about the bout tonight, that is, as to the probable winner.

Pittsburgh seldom has been less represented, numerically that is, at a championship bout. Pittsburgh, which has sent delegations of some size to all big sporting events, grew cool toward tonight's affair. Not more than 200 Pittsburghers came here to see the affair, in contrast to a 1,000 and more who went to Chicago to see Tunney and Dempsey and 5,000 who attended the first Tunney-Dempsey affair in Philadelphia.

IN A smaller city a heavyweight championship would make itself felt in the way of hustle and bustle, but New York swallows a championship bout as an elephant gobbles a peanut. Broadway looks no different today than it looks any other day.

The Pirates are here—but not for the fight, primarily. They have some business to attend to with the Giants. Most of the boys will take their field glasses and take a shot at the warriors in the ring tonight. Bush, the Pirate manager, will tell you that by some good luck he has managed to see many of the big bouts. By some miracle his baseball schedule, except in one or two instances, has thrown him into the cities at the time some of the big fight championships were on. He likes boxing next to baseball.

WHAT keeps quite a few Pittsburghers with sufficient means away from these big affairs is the uncertainty about getting good seats. They don't mind the tariff of $40 for a ringside seat, but they balk a little at buying a ringside seat which is no closer to the ring than P. and L. E. Station is to the B. and O. terminal in Pittsburgh.

In New York today we met a few of the young hustlers of Pittsburgh. "Hustler," is a quaint term for a sort of junior racketeer. A "hustler" quaintly enough seldom works, but he always manages to be around where big things are popping. The young "hustlers" did not have any tickets for the Tunney-Heeney affair when we saw them today, but if you happen to be around the ring tonight when Tunney climbs through the ropes you probably will see some of our young "hustlers" climbing over someone's back at the ringside to shout "Hello" to the champion. One of them always makes it a point to come up and slap our back. It is, we believe, his system of scoring. He slaps us on the back like a watchman punches his time clock—just to show us he's on the job, as per schedule.

SOME of the Pittsburghers here after asking us who was going to win the bout, were dirty enough after we told them the truth, to remind us about a horse named Toro in the Kentucky Derby that looked pretty good to us. They don't seem to realize that we are down here as an expert and that we must maintain some dignity.

The bout tonight will go on at 10 o'clock and since it will be a 15-round encounter, there will be hardly time for the Pittsburgh boys to catch a train back home tonight unless there would be an early knockout which is not anticipated. This means the Pittsburgh boys will be around gay Gotham tomorrow, returning tomorrow night on the Pittsburgher, the Pennsy's crack New York to Pittsburgh express.

ALWAYS on an assignment of this kind we get philosophical and in such a mood never fail to think of you lucky people back home who, instead of having to put up with train berths, hotel meals, the rush and crush attendant upon a big championship bout, can stay home, enjoy good home cooking, and retire to bed at 11 o'clock. It just seems to be a 24-hour day for us fight experts. But we seldom complain. Just good old soldiers doing today's task no matter how unpleasant—with no whimpering. Ah, well, we experts will surely get our reward in a better world, as the old hymn hath it. (We like that—"hath it").

PADLOCK SOFT DRINK PLANT

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today ordered a temporary padlock injunction against the Monongahela Beverage Company of Monongahela, forbidding that company from manufacturing intoxicating liquor.

The place was raided last Friday by prohibition agents who testified yesterday before the United States Commissioner that beer, with a prewar kick was run from a vat in the plant through a hose to barrels in a nearby shed. Vincent Pala and Frank DeCooman, fireman at the plant, were held for court by the commissioner, and hearing continued on Charles T. Wyeth, secretary and treasurer; Harold Vogel, vice president, and Fred Weible, brewmaster.

HOT PENNIES SERVED NEWLY-WED SERENADERS

At a wedding feast in the East End last night, the "best man" heated several dozen pennies in a frying pan and then tossed them into a crowd of 50 youngsters who were serenading the newlyweds outside the house. More than a score of boys and girls were burned on their faces or fingers as they fought for the coins.

The "best man" admitted it all in Morals Court today. He said he was drunk and didn't realize what he was doing. His name is recorded as Edward E. Fisher, 30, of 5716 Forbes street, on the police docket.

Anna Marmarose and Joseph Conrad had been married early in the day and the celebration was at Anna's home—29 Mayflower street. The young serenaders collected outside the house with dishpans, rattlers and other noise-making devices.

Fisher, who had stood up for the couple, estimated he had heated about a dozen pennies, but Mrs. H. J. Rice, of 22 Mayflower street, whose son was burned, said he had really tossed about 200 coins to the crowd. Fisher described himself as the manager of an East End loan company.

Nine of the young victims appeared in Morals Court today to show their burns and tell their story. Decision was reserved on Fisher until other victims of his penny-throwing act testify.

SLUGGED, MAN MAY DIE

Alleged to have been knocked against the curb in a fight with an unidentified Negro early today, E. J. Edwards, 30, of 219 Natchez street, Mt. Washington, is in a critical condition in the Homeopathic Hospital suffering from a fractured skull, and may die.

Police were told Edwards was standing on the curb and his hat fell off. The Negro picked it up and put it on Edwards' head, whereupon he objected and struck the Negro, and a fight ensued. The Negro fled after Edwards had been injured.

GIRL INSISTS KIDNAPERS DOPED HER; ASKS REVENGE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

BELLEVERNON, Pa., July 26.—Her big brown eyes serious and still holding fright, Lucinda Boyce, 15-year-old Bellevernon high school girl, in her home here sobbed:

"I was scared nearly to death when those boys kidnaped me. I had never seen them before. Please believe me. They forced me into a car, then gave me something in a glass."

This is the reiterated story of her abduction by two youths when she started to the store for her mother about 8 o'clock in the evening of July 17. Three Monessen men have been placed under arrest. They are Owen Brown, 22, Lewis Brown 21, and Henry Laird, 23.

They are held in $1,500 bail each on statutory charges.

The young man Linda says accosted her on the street and another are being sought as the two who forced her into the car and took her to various hotels during the three days that she was missing.

Lucinda's mother, a widow, whose sole support is her 17-year-old son Edward is heart broken.

Over and over again she pledges her faith in her "baby."

"My Cindy was never a girl to even leave the house. Anyone who says she willingly went away with those men should be ashamed to smirch the character of an innocent child. She always goes to Sunday school and church."

It has been said that the girl was doped. Her eyes have a glazed, unnatural look and her mother says she showed symptons of having been under a drug.

Lucinda herself says:

"It is like a dream. I have no recollection of half that went on. Anyway I can't tell my story now. The time will come—and I want them to suffer for the scandal that has been started about me. Not so much for my sake as for mother's sake."

Lucinda waved from the balcony of the Grand Hotel, Monessen on Friday evening at 6:30, attracting the attention of Mrs. Mike Bundy, who recognized her and notified Mrs. Boyce. She had seen newspaper articles of the kidnaping. Lucinda sobs:

"Oh, I wanted her to see me. I watched my chance to attract someone's attention. God knows what would have happened to me if I hadn't been found then. I don't think I could have lived much longer."

Under the guidance of H. Russell Stahlman, attorney for Mrs. Boyce, the police and the district attorney are bringing every force to bear upon clearing this mystery that has rocked the small community. For Lucinda is well known here.

She was born and raised in Bellevernon, the baby of her widowed mother, who has brought ten children into the world and lost four.

The father died three months ago and the mother finds this new sorrow harder to bear because she is alone.

HAMMER MURDER SEEN BY TWO MECHANICS

Mingo Junction Man Hunted in Killing of Bride's Grandfather in Florida.

LAKE CITY, FLA., July 25.—(AP.)—C. B. Messer, filling station operator, told police late today that Walter Hall and Ed Buck, mechanics in his employ had related to him that they witnessed the slaying Monday night of G. W. Simmons, 78-year-old Steubenville, O., tourist.

The Messer filling station and garage is located at the tourist camp where Simmons, his granddaughter, Mrs. E. L. Booth, and her husband, lived. The Booths are being sought in connection with Simmons' death. His body, with his skull crushed was found several miles out of Lake City in a drainage ditch.

Messer, who later found the body, said Hall and Buck told him the slaying occurred at about 8:30 o'clock Monday night, near the filling station.

The mechanics saw the automobile used by the Booths and Simmons pass the station, Messer said they reported, with the younger man standing on the running board of the car beating Simmons over the head. They also heard Simmons crying for help, they said. Mrs. Booth was said to have been driving the automobile at the time.

"When Hall and Buck came back," Messer said, "and told me what they had seen, I went over to the cottage where the three had been living and finding the door open, immediately set out in search of them.

"I searched until about 2 o'clock in the morning, then went home and went to bed.

"I got up at 4 a. m., began my search again and found the body in the ditch about 5:30. I notified the authorities, and the body was brought back to town. I then went over to the cottage, where I found numerous papers, bills and a court summons for Simmons, along with five or six rolls of undeveloped kodak films, which I turned over to the sheriff."

Murdered Steubenville Man Had Large Amount of Cash With Him.

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 26.—Relatives of G. W. Simmons, 83, killed Wednesday at Lake City, Fla., said today that he had turned much of his property into cash before going south with his granddaughter and her husband on their delayed honeymoon. They believed, they said, that he had at least two or three thousand dollars with him when he left here July 15 with E. L. Booth, 27, Mingo Junction, the bridegroom, and the 18-year-old granddaughter, Helen Booth, whom he had cared for since she was 13 months old. The Booths are being sought in connection with the killing.

Robert C. Simmons, 42, son of the murdered man, left last night for Florida and will aid in the investigation of the crime. The body of the elder Simmons will be brought here. The Booths were making their honeymoon trip at the expense of Simmons, according to relatives here, and have not yet been located.

HAD TROUBLE

Simmons, relatives said, showered the girl with his wealth, and, it is said, that the trip to Florida, where Simmons usually spent his winters, was made at this time at the urgent suggestion of the bride. Before the three left, it is claimed here, there was some slight trouble and relatives were uneasy about the journey.

Booth, who is a son of Ollie Booth, a merchant, of Mingo Junction, O., married the Simmons girl shortly after being divorced from his first wife. Relatives of Booth assert he had no regular occupation.

WANT 40-HOUR WEEK

LABOR COUNCIL FAVORS WEEK OF 5 DAYS

HARRISBURG, July 26.—(AP.)—Establishment of a five-day, 40-hour week in all industries was advocated by the executive council of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor after a two-day session here.

The short-week suggestion was one of a series of resolutions passed by the last annual meeting of the Federation and referred to the council for approval. Others approved today sought state licensing of electricians, legal right of local unions to exercise right of collective bargaining, a depositors' guarantee banking law and a law prohibiting women from working as metal polishers.

Cure by Gallon Gets "Doctor" In Trouble

AMBRIDGE, Pa., July 26.—Charged with practicing medicine without a license, George Satirabes, of Ambridge, arrested here, was committed to jail at Beaver, for court, by Justice William Cassidy. It is charged that Satirabes has taken payment for "professional" services. One woman testified he had guaranteed to cure her husband and had delivered two gallons of medicine on payment of $50, a like amount to be paid when the cure was effected. She said Satirabes claimed three and a half gallons of his medicine would cure anything.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

SUMMER evening programs—which most stations will present tonight—in the language of the musician means soft, popular or lyrical music. And to these the quartets, orchestras, entertainers will confine themselves.

Particularly will this be true of the Maxwell hour, when the orchestra and quartet will give half a dozen selections that are popular and swingy—like "Breezing Along With the Breeze," and similar things. This hour will begin at 9:30 on KDKA. At 9, through WCAE, fight fans may get the Tunney-Heeney fight in New York.

JACOBY NAMED ON BOARD

WILMER M. JACOBY.

Wilmer M. Jacoby, of Pittsburgh, has been notified by Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis that he has been reappointed for a term of five years as a member of the Board of Advisors of the Inland Waterways Corporation of America. The corporation was organized five years ago under an act of Congress.

The corporation operates the Federal Barge Line on the Mississippi, Upper Mississippi and Warrior rivers. The Barge Line is co-operating with the City of Pittsburgh in developing plans for a modern barge line terminal here, as advocated by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh. The line has operating agreements with 167 railroads and complete cooperation is given to independent users of the Ohio river.

The Oldest Love Letter in the World

THE oldest love letter in the world is in the British Museum. It is a proposal of marriage for the hand of an Egyptian princess and is in the form of a brick inscribed with hieroglyphic characters.

An Osram Lamp

A CURIOUS looking object was seen recently on the waves at a North Wales coast resort. When landed it was found to be a solid brown mass with a thick salt-like coating. This was removed and disclosed an Osram lamp.

Raggedy Finds the Pistol With Which the Murder Was Done

THAT she didn't love him and didn't wish him to love her mattered not at all; the hope had nothing to do with love. She was hurt by the sure knowledge that whatever bigness she had expected of him was not there. Only the outside of Marty had come up in the world; his spirit remained where it always had been.

At this point in her reflection a thin, dark boy with an earnest face and a general appearance of purpose about him came into the shop.

"You're Miss Day?" he asked. "I suppose you don't know me. Ted Lanier's the name."

She never had heard of him. But there was something so frank and wholesome in his personality that she liked him at once.

"I used to meet your sister sometimes. Don't hold that against me, though; the fact is I'm in love with her. I fell in love right at the start and was crazy to marry her. I could take care of her, too; I've got a good job and money saved. But she turned me down."

Emily tried to conceal her amazement. It wasn't necessary, however; he was too intent on what he had to say to notice it.

"I ask you, Miss Day, if you liked a decent young fellow—she did like me, you know; I'm sure of that!—would you let it stand in the way because he was a chauffeur?"

She made him sit down then. "You'd better tell me all about, hadn't you? I'm rather surprised."

So he told her. "And I've been wanting to see Kitten," he finished. "Since certain things happened. I sort of thought I might make it a bit easier, being around to cheer her up."

"You knew she—about her connection with the Wickert case?"

"I knew she'd been going around with him. Say," he flared, "she had nothing to do with the murder. Or with anything else that wasn't right. Don't ever get that into your head. Kitten's as good and sweet as she can be. 'Course she's a little careless sometimes, but—

"I'd have gone to her right away only I was afraid she wouldn't see me. Do you think," he asked wistfully, "you could fix it for me?"

She smiled with a hurt in her throat. A fine boy! Lucky girl, Kitten was, to win the love of such a one!

"I'm sure I can fix it. You come home with me, Ted."

"Thank you." He caught her hand and wrung it.

She left him in the porch swing and up in the sunroom found her sister, head down on the wicker table, sobbing hysterically.

"I—I saw you c-coming, Em. Tell him to—to g-go away. He—he's here t-to laugh at me. Oh, I w-want t-to die—"

"Kitten—"

There was a step in the hall; Emily felt herself brushed aside. Ted looked very earnest and very purposeful indeed as he gathered Kitten in his arms, kissing away the tears, running his fingers over the bright hair.

Emily went down to the garden, thinking of Marty and of Kingdon Coles.

She weeded the marigold patch; sat down on the short grass to watch the four-o'clocks open. White and red and golden blossoms holding their cups to be filled by afternoon sunshine; bright things, grateful for their own beauty.

Raggedy, grown fat, and lazy with his years, but still believing himself a puppy when there was a chance for a romp, found her there and thrust a cold nose into her neck. She threw a stick for him to retrieve; he pounced upon it, growling ferociously and wagging his head from side to side. Then he invited her for a walk with sharp little barks and quick runs toward the street.

She put him on a leash finally and led him up the lane. There she met Kent in his roadster.

He was going over to Deep Valley, he said, and meant to stop for her. She had been such a fine little assistant that somehow he had a superstition against doing anything without her advice.

He smiled down at her, the old, quizzical humor in his face as he helped her into the car and opened the rumble seat for Raggedy.

At the Inn they proceeded to search the veranda again. To the right and a few yards away was a little glen; a stream edged by a narrow path would have been easy for one who did not wish to be seen."

"She might have come this way," Kent told Emily. "I don't suppose we'll find anything down there, but we may as well try."

They climbed over the bank, the dog racing about, and began another careful scrutiny. Underbrush grew heavily on both sides of this stream and they tore through this, studying the ground. But not so much as a footprint rewarded their efforts. They penetrated far up the glen to a point where the patch was obscured by matted elders and creepers.

"No one has been through that thicket," Kent remarked.

But Emily peered ahead. Raggedy had run on and now he was growling with his ears slanted forward and jumping about in the stiff-legged manner of terriers.

"He acts that way when I throw something for him to carry back," she explained.

"Probably found a rabbit hole."

Kent was turning when she caught his arm. "No—I'm sure—you see he has a different bark for rabbit holes. He almost talks, you know—makes a dozen different sounds and I can tell what he means by each. This has something to do with a person and a stranger. We'd better see."

Laughing at her confidence in the dog, Kent struggled through the rank growth. She saw him bend over, hesitate, straighten up again. Then he scrambled back carrying an object very gingerly between thumb and fore-finger.

What he held seemed a toy but she realized with a shudder that it was not. A small, rather dainty pistol, pearl-handled.

They stared at each other. "It's the one she took to the club that night." He nodded. "Probably came along this path and threw it over there. One chance in a thousand of finding it. The ground is swampy and it was standing upright with the barrel in the earth."

He would take the pistol to Novel City, he said, and lock it in the safe. Did she want to ride over with him?

"Of course I do!" And, thinking that sounded too eager, she added, "I want to help all I can. She'll be arrested now, won't she?"

"Let's make it sure first. This is only half the link; let's close it tomorrow. You can do that, Emily."

"Oh, I'm glad—" She caught his look, warm as a caress, and stooped over Raggedly to hide her face.

JULY IN THE CITY

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

THE work-world is sitting at the bottom of a steaming sea of air in a landscape of stone and concrete. Trudging around on hot asphalt, breathing super-heated air. Some go to lunch alone because the sight of an equally heated companion, and the necessity of talking to him is too much. Others round up somebody for company to their misery. Some can't work and others work like fiends, "to forget." Girls tuck their hair behind their ears if it isn't there already, and either powder their noses a thousand times a day or give up trying it at all and show the "slick" nose of their childhood. Women marvel at the devotion of men to their warm cloth trousers and coats even while they brandish handkerchiefs over hot foreheads and speculate on the delight of a chiffon frock with no collar and sleeves. Artists elbows stick to their paper, their pens fuzz up, the ink won't run, pencils sink into the paper like a spike-heel in hot tar, and they are leading generally a terrible life in July in the city. An open window means nothing; it is like opening the door of a furnace and looking in. The most conventional man wishes he could wear his shirt-collar like a movie hero, and that nobody would look at him for doing it. And he remembers that down in Florida in the Summertime, judge and millionaire, lawyer and surgeon, wears a cool wash suit of the crinkly stuff that baby's nighties are made of, and he wishes it would get very swanky to do it here, and wonders why in heck it doesn't. JULY IN THE CITY. The work-world all hot!

And every mail brings into this inferno, DREAMS. Dreams of cool mountain-streams bursting over rocks in green and white showers and rushing away under pines and their purple shadows. Dreams of white and green oceans breaking on white sand with a picture of the client diving into the velvet water that comes in from the dark blue deep. Dreams of white mountain-tops where God sits on His throne, high against blue sky, lifted into clear air untainted, champagne-clean, cooled by eternal snows. Dreams of high lakes, closed in by ranks of pines, mirrors to drift upon, alone, body and soul eased and caressed by the breath of the wilderness. Every mail brings them. Whether they are a torment or a delight is in your mind.

For this worker, until my vacation comes, the "ads" of places to go, with their gorgeous pictures, they are incense to my spirit.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

MEN—AND OTHER MEN

EVERY man has the secret conviction that nothing but lack of time or lack of fascinating women prevented him from being a Great Lover—or at least a dashing Don Juan.

Nothing surprises a man nowadays, except to come home and find his wife, his daughter and the cook still there.

This new fashion of giving your engagement party, before either of you has gotten your divorce, is almost like premature burial.

HELEN ROWLAND

If angels really wear all those long, voluminous robes, no wonder the modern girl feels no violent urge to be good just in order to go to heaven.

A man may explain that he wears a panama because it is cool and comfortable, a straw hat because it shades his eyes and a golf cap because it is light and convenient—but what in all this wide, green world will explain the DERBY?

As a striking example of a slow-motion picture, the movies might show us a cross-section of a modern man's mind while he is making it up to let a woman love him.

There are many kinds of silence: the golden silence of love, the leaden silence of boredom, and the crackling silence between a married pair thinking of the scathing truths they are going to tell each other some day!

Cheerfulness is a greater charm than any love-powder or any face-powder. Men love a cheerful woman as they love the color red. They can forgive a woman for anything on earth, except for being miserable.

If you can't be thankful for what you receive in marriage, be thankful for what you escaped.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

All Aboard for the Beach Picnic!

JUDGING from the actions of the members of our farmhouse family, Lillian was not alone in her thankfulness that the beach party was at hand. From the moment that Katie's rising bell—rung by agreement an hour earlier than usual—ushered in the day, to the time of our departure for the bay, there was no dissonant note in the chorus of delight at the prospect in front of us.

Of course to no one save to Lillian and to me did the affair appear to have any other possibilities than enjoyment. And we were careful to let slip no careless word or look which would betray her plan to watch Philip Veritzen's actions, and mine to essay the winning of Eleanor Lincoln's confidence, that I might help her.

One other thing pressed upon my consciousness and my conscience, and that was the remembrance of the promise I had made Noel Veritzen that sometime during the day or evening I would contrive to give him an opportunity of seeing Mary Harrison alone in order that he might find out the secret of her avoidance of him.

Our guests arrived early, as did our host—for Philip Veritzen was giving the affair, with Katie as his efficient major-domo, with so overweening a sense of her own importance as "boss of dot job," as she herself expressed it, that she gave us all unlimited amusement through the day. And by 10 o'clock the procession of cars, ranging in cost and importance from Philip Veritzen's big limousine to the remodeled flivver with a wagon box for picnic necessities which Jim drove, was on its way to the beach.

With punctilious courtesy Mr. Veritzen offered the seat of honor in his car to Mother Graham, and Lillian and I managed things so that Katherine accompanied her.

Dicky's car led the way, for our first objective was the great inland bay two miles from the house where we meant to have a swim and lunch.

Lillian and I lagged behind the rest for I had promised Katie that I would lock up for her, and I conscientiously fulfilled the duty before starting. But by an extra spurt of speed I soon caught up with the limousine, through the window of which we could see Philip Veritzen in apparently absorbed conversation with Mother Graham.

"They don't make 'em any foxier than old Phil," Lillian commented with a grin. "He knows that your mother-in-law hasn't much use for him, and he's laying out a campaign of attention and adroit flattery that will make her think he's a combination of G. Washington and the Earl of Chesterfield. Those were her girlish heroes, weren't they?"

"I believe they were," I replied, laughing at her nonsense, but with the mental reservation that if my employer was able to conquer the suspicious aversion with which my captious mother-in-law regarded him, he would deserve even more extravagant encomiums than Lillian's.

Use Soap and Water to Prevent Disease

THIS is the time of year when frequent bathing adds to the comfort. Regular bathing at all times of the year promotes the health.

We are living in the period of bath-tubs. It was not long ago that a bath-tub was a novelty. Visit the old castles and palaces of Europe and if they have been left in their original state, you will find no bath-tubs.

DR. COPELAND

It is true that in the glorious days of the Roman empire bathing was as common as the radio is today, but it was public bathing. It was a social function rather than a hygienic practice.

The skin is rich in sweat glands and grease glands. They pour out quantities of fluid, much of it filled with waste material. The oils which keep the skin pliable and elastic are capable of catching and holding all manner of dirt and germs.

A good many persons are unfortunate in having secretions which carry highly offensive odors. Without frequent bathing, almost any person will become an offense to his associates.

Regular bathing should be practiced for the sake of cleanliness. Good soap and lots of water will do wonders in warding off disease.

The clothing, especially the intimate garments, become soiled and impregnated with the secretions of the skin. On this account the regular baths should be followed by discarding the soiled garments and putting on clean ones.

Everybody should have a stated program about the use of water. Let us begin with the hands.

If there is one thing we know and believe, it is that the hands convey disease. It is no wonder they do, because the hands go everywhere. They come in contact with all sorts of disease-producing material.

Add to this fact the unaccountable habit many persons have of putting their fingers in their mouths and biting their finger nails—there you have a combination sure to produce trouble. Fingers do not belong in the mouth.

The hands should be washed several times a day and always before eating. You should never think of doing anything with the hands which will bring them near the mouth or nose unless they have been washed.

When you get home from work the face should be washed with soap and water. You should not go to bed until wou have washed hands and face and the outer openings of the nostrils with soap and water.

At least twice a week, and better still, every day, there should be a general bath with soap and generous quantities of water. After each bath a change of underwear should come as a matter of course.

Cleanliness is next to godliness, we are taught. Who can doubt it?

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, July 27

A PARTICULARLY eventful and intriguing day is presaged from the predominant lunar operations. There is likely to be a sudden change of affairs, leading to unexpected opportunities and advantages of moment. These may be expected to bring about radical change of environment as well as employment, which generally is most auspiciously favored by the trine of the luminaries.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a most interesting and eventful year, with the augury of many beneficial changes and adventures. It is probable that these opportunities relate to the employment and may be far-reaching in their effects. Some sort of public recognition or honor may accrue.

One can never quite understand these persons who refuse to move up into the next class.

They want to forever go through life as freshmen.

It is becoming a mark of old age to be seen with too youthful companions.

Real youth is bored by much younger playmates. Those in their 'teens do not pal with kids of 10. Those in their 20's shun the callow 'teens.

Byrd Prepares for His Flight Across the Atlantic to France

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Commander Byrd first trained for a seafaring profession, but later became interested in aviation. He has described the dangers of pioneer flying and the crash of the America. During the war he established an air unit at Halifax, N. S. He advocated the creation of a Bureau of Aeronautics in the Navy Department. Due to missing a train he failed to make the fatal test flight on the ZR-2. He described the adventurous flights of the first aviators to cross the Atlantic Ocean and of his trip to the North Pole.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Wanamaker Backs Flight

CHAPTER XXIV.

FOR 12 years I had been dreaming of a flight across the Atlantic Ocean. The NC boats had done the trick in stages. The R-34, the airship which had flown from England to New York and return was not an airplane. No one had as yet crystallized my dream into a single successful nonstop flight from New York to Europe.

When we hoisted anchor at Spitzbergen after the North Pole flight I turned to Bennett and said:

"Now we can fly the Atlantic."

To which he replied: "I hope you take me with you."

"We go together," I retorted, not knowing that cruel circumstances would prevent my ever carrying out this promise.

I have decided to go into details for the first time about the trans-Atlantic flight of the America.

Thirty valuable lives were lost in trans-oceanic flight last summer. Aviation lost some of its best fliers. But it was not aviation's fault that so many brave men were lost. They were pioneering. Enough sacrifice has been made.

My purpose in facing facts is to show reasons why disaster is preventable and so prevent a recurrence of many similar deaths in the future of trans-oceanic flying.

I want to say with emphasis that commercial aviation should not suffer on account of these pioneer flights.

I am going to speak out in plain words which I so often wished I could use in the summer of 1927:

"I have spent years planning and thinking about this trans-Atlantic flight problem," was my constant feeling about the poor fellows who were going to their deaths. "I know some of you are going to kill yourselves, for you haven't prepared properly."

Yet shouting this in the newspapers after our successful flight in the America would only have unsaid it. I would have been accused of poor sportsmanship and egotism. I tried every other way to stop them, but they were fixed with some spirit that would not be quenched.

While crossing the Atlantic returning from Spitzbergen Bennett and I discussed types of planes at great length. We wanted to be scientific, to point the way for the transatlantic plane of the future, to the practical way of crossing the Atlantic commercially.

I knew from past conversations on the subject, that many good aeronautical men at home would favor our using a single-engined plane. We had a number of single-engined planes that could cross the Atlantic; and engines were already reliable for the flyer to put considerable trust in them. But we did not want our flight to be a matter of chance. We felt that if we could fly to Europe in a machine that would be a precursor of the practical trans-Atlantic plane of the future we would be contributing more to the progress of ocean flying.

I knew that it had long been the desire of Rodman Wanamaker to send an airplane to Paris. He felt deeply the value of such a flight to international goodwill. He was a lifelong friend of France and had for years lived in Paris. Hence the destination he chose for his project was the French capital.

I had always felt the same way about the goodwill aspects of such a flight. The disaster to the ZR-2 showed what aviation, even in tragedy, could do for international good fellowship. I knew that in success it could do still more.

Design Type of Plane

For years as I contemplated this project it had given me much pleasure to formulate in my mind messages of friendship to drop over England.

My relations with Englishmen during the war had been extremely pleasant. Even before that I had cause to be grateful to England. While on a cruise once during sea duty I had been carried from one of our battleships, on a stretcher, in a most desperate condition, to the Royal Naval Hospital at Plymouth. I pulled out by the skin of my teeth and I owed my recovery to the extraordinary and friendly care the English gave me.

I had no difficulty in gaining Mr. Wanamaker's approval and backing for our plan for a New York-to-Paris flight. It was his wish that we build an entirely new plane at his expense. But I foresaw the chance of hitting on a design that would not be practicable on first production. There are always many kinks to get out of an entirely new design.

So I stuck to the type which had successfully carried Bennett and me over the Pole, only we planned a bigger plane.

As we had thought, there rose much criticism against taking a multi-engined plane. A machine with a single engine, it was pointed out, would have a much longer cruising radius; would be cheaper to run; would have less resistance in the air; and its one engine would be a great deal less care before we started—nothing like so complicated as the great three-engined plane.

This was all true, I had to admit. It seems extraordinary that a small one-engined plane has a bigger cruising radius than a big three-engined plane. Unfortunately, the airplane is not like a steamer, where the bigger the ship the longer the ship can cruise.

We had just a single powerful demurrer to make to all these points; if anything went wrong with a single engine the expedition would end then and there, and the prestige of aviation, we felt, would be damaged in the public mind.

How many times we have been glad that we clung to this theory. For it was want of just the lack of this extra engining that I think had much to do with the long list of tragedies in the fatal ocean flights which followed ours.

Mr. Wanamaker, whom I have found to be a very patriotic man, decided to name the plane the America after a trans-Atlantic plane he had built in 1914.

It gives me much pleasure to mention the quality of the backing we got from Mr. Wanamaker. He denied us nothing we needed and the experimental nature of the expedition made it a very expensive proposition indeed. He assigned Mr. Grover Whalen, of New York City, as his representative and Whalen did everything that was humanly possible for the expedition.

From a scientific standpoint there were a lot of things we wanted to prove by the flight of the America that would help point the way for the regular trans-Atlantic flier. It would take a whole book to cover that aspect of our flight. But I will discuss here some of our experiments that we hoped would bring us very near the trans-Atlantic plane of the future.

In the winter of 1926 the Atlantic Aircraft Corporation set about building the America. It was to be a big three-engined plane similar to our North Pole machine, except that it had an increase in the wing spread from 63 to 71 feet. With this extra surface we expected to be able to get off the ground with at least 3,000 pounds more than we had taken on the North Pole flight.

This extra capacity would permit us to take fuel for our very long flight and 800 pounds of equipment over and above that which was absolutely necessary. We wanted to show that some pay load could be carried across the Atlantic.

We took a special radio set, as well as a waterproof installation in case of a forced landing; two rubber boats for the crew; and emergency food and equipment of all sorts; Very pistols for night signalling, etc., etc. Also we wanted to take three or four people to demonstrate that passengers could even now be taken across the Atlantic.

We even went in for a kite with which our wireless antennae would be kept in the air if we settled on the ocean; and which would act as a sail to pull the plane along at the same time. We put in an extra sextant and hand compasses for navigating. Our food was a scientifically worked out ration that would permit us to subsist for at least three weeks. We had a special apparatus that would make water so that we would not thirst to death.

I was sworn in by the Post Office Department as the first trans-Atlantic air mail pilot and we carried the first bag of U. S. air mail from the States to France.

In addition to the preparation mentioned above, we had built a big 1,200-gallon gasoline tank. The building of that great gas tank designed to carry over 7,000 pounds of gasoline was an interesting experiment. We put a dump valve in it. This was the first time such a device was used in aviation. Its purpose was to empty our fuel in a few seconds in case we saw we were going to crash.

There is a vast difference between a forced landing on rough ground with a light load, and such a landing with a very heavy load. Also the empty tank would give flotation in case we landed in the ocean. Then it gave another great advantage; if an engine should stop, we could dump gasoline down to the point where we could fly on two engines.

New Devices on Plane

Bennett designed a switch that would cut out all three engines at once.

This was also a fire prevention device and one that later saved our lives, as I shall presently show.

We had a catwalk built from our fusilage leading to the outboard engines. By means of this a man could get out and work on a dead engine while the plane continued to fly. This was a new departure in plane design, and one we hoped that was a step forward.

Our radio set was devised especially for our flight by Malcolm P. Hanson and L. A. Hyland, in the Naval Reserch Laboratory at Washington, with a view to the greatest possible sending range for its weight. We wanted to prove that we could locate ourselves at sea with radio.

One of the most interesting features of our radio was the automatic sending device, by which call letters were repeated constantly, at the rate of about 10 complete calls a minute on a prearranged wave length.

Then we carried a small waterproof set to use in case we should come down in the ocean. Surely the plane of the future would need such a set.

TUNNEY RULES 3-TO-1 CHOICE OVER HEENEY

TITLE BATTLE FAILS TO DRAW SUPPORT

CHAMPION

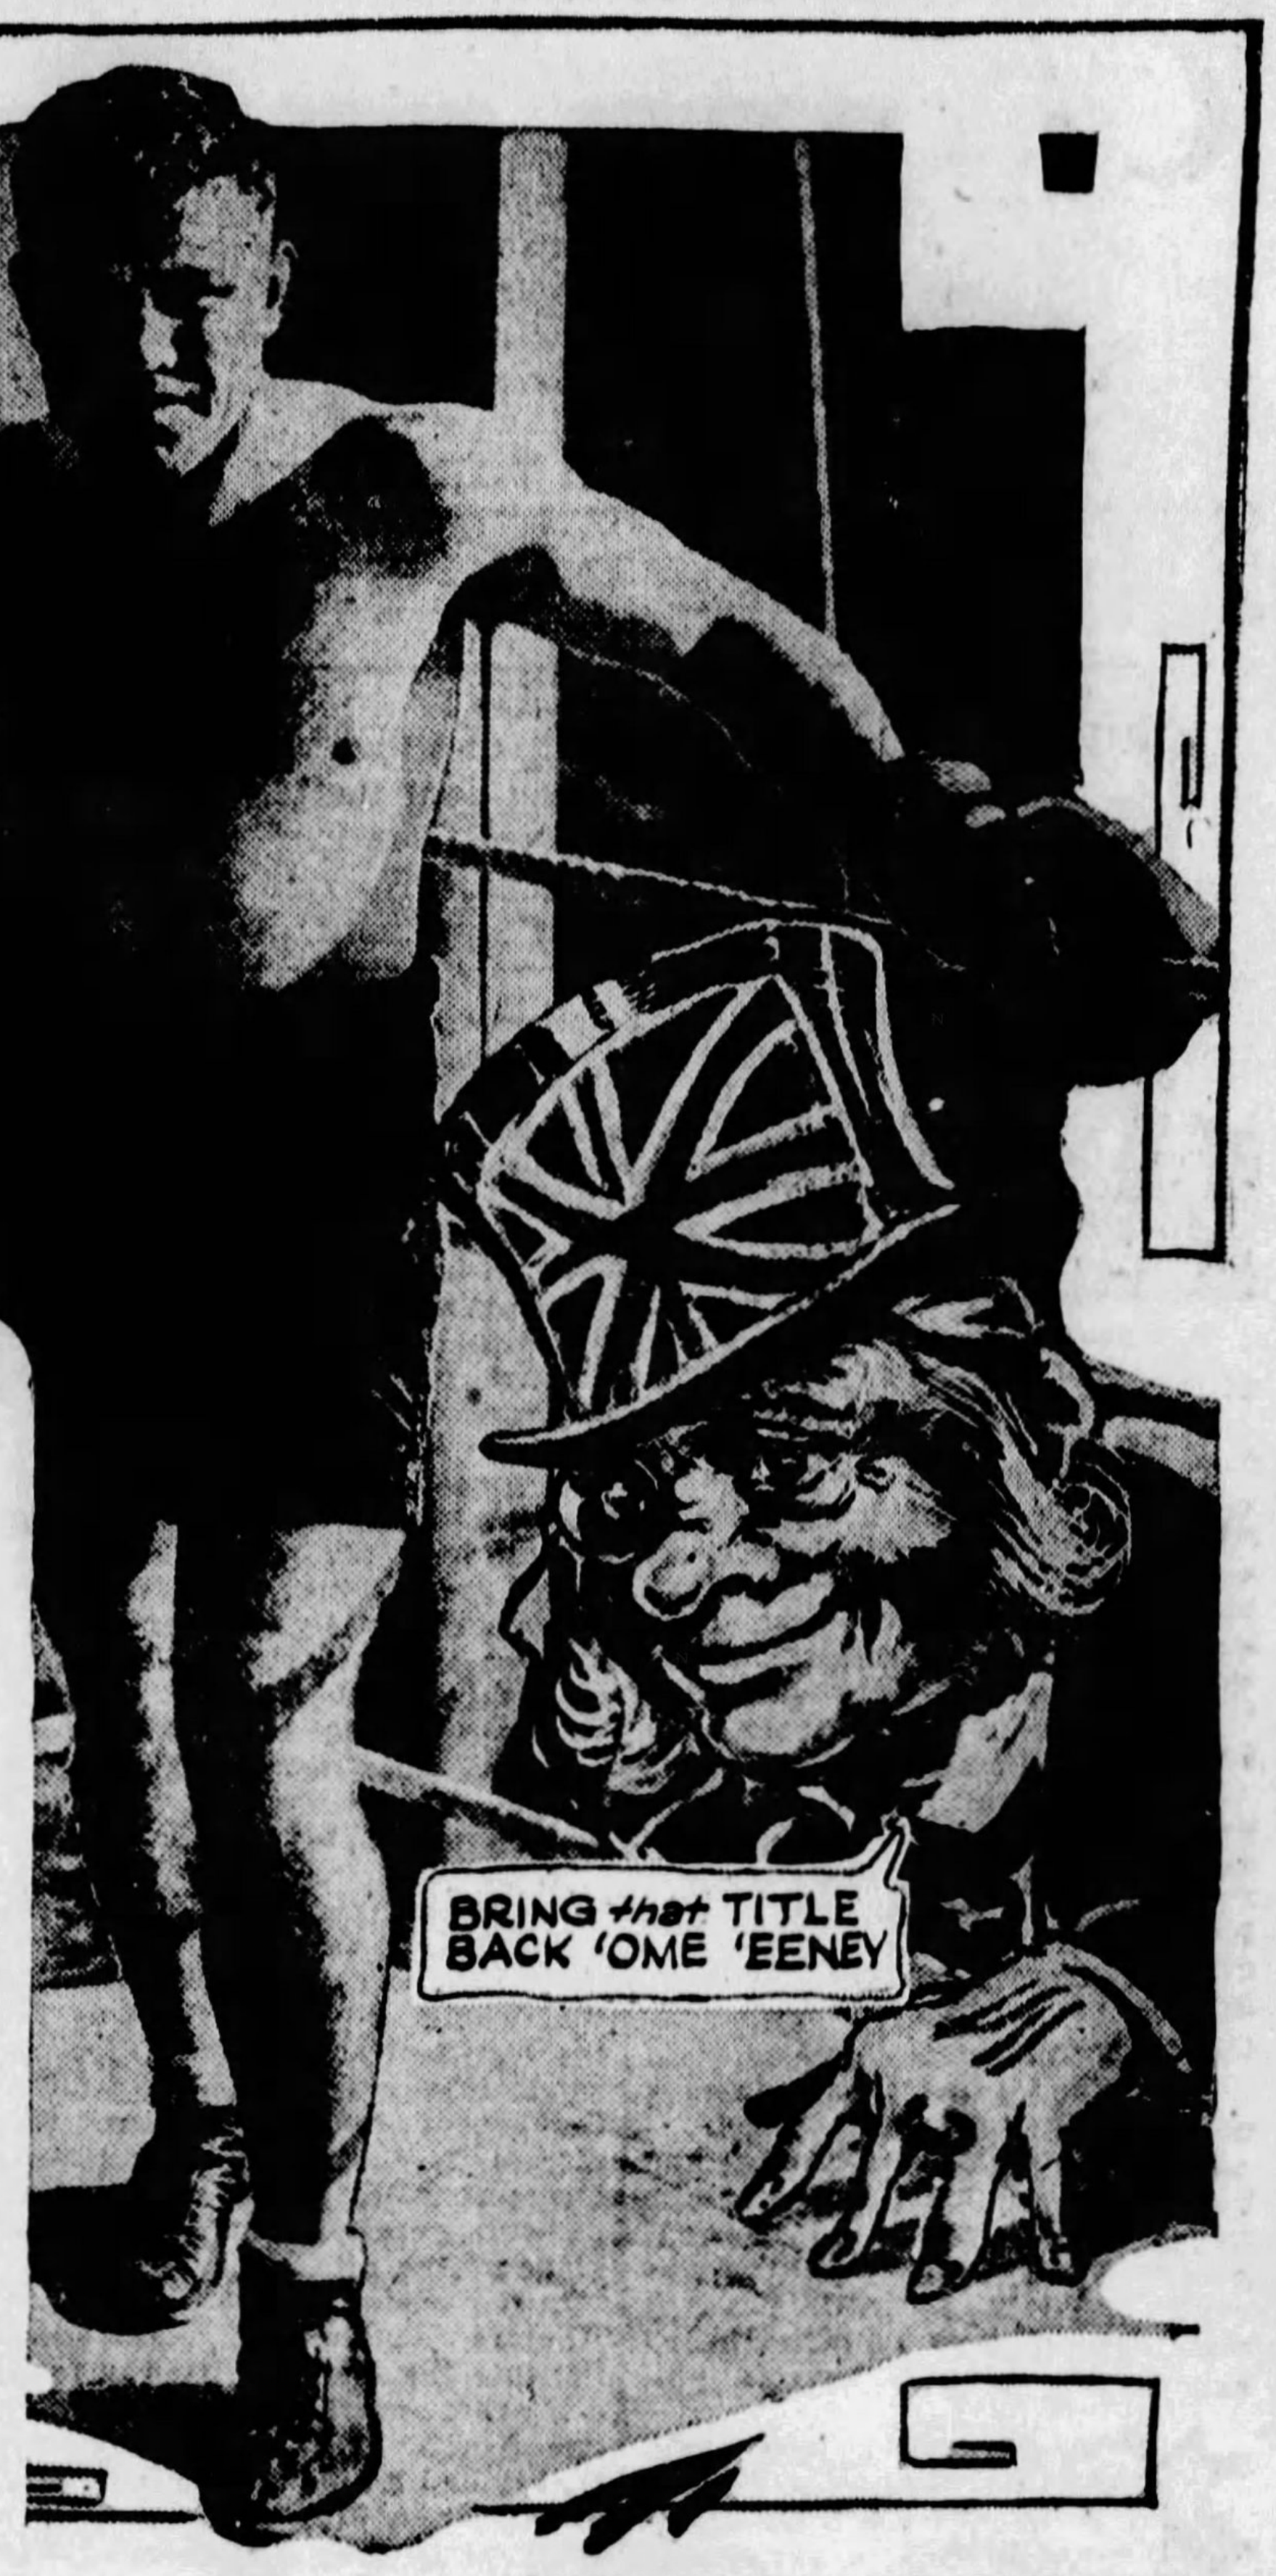
Here's Gene Tunney defending the old heavyweight championship of the world against one of those "furriners." This time the invader is Tom Heeney, of New Zealand, one of the British possessions. Remember the fuss when Tex Rickard dug up foreign threats for Jack Dempsey in the persons of Georges Carpentier and Luis Firpo—and what Dempsey did to them? The dope is that Tunney should be well able to take care of himself tonight.



BRING that TITLE BACK 'OME 'EENEY

CHALLENGER

And here's Tom Heeney, the hope of the world against America. Tom is emulating the title bid of his late countryman, Bob Fitzsimmons, who knocked out Jim Corbett, the counterpart of the clever Tunney of today. It's been so long since John Bull had a good heavyweight that it must seem like a dream for him to have a 50-50 interest in a championship battle between big fellows.

CHAMP, CHALLENGER READY FOR BELL

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP.)—The final blare of the ballyhoo horns have awakened New York to realization that there will be a heavyweight championship fight in the Yankee Stadium tonight.

But it was not the announcement that Gene Tunney, aviation enthusiast, scholar and the king of the leather flingers, would match his speed, ring science and limitless stamina for 15 rounds against Tom Heeney, the horseshoe twister from New Zealand, that turned the trick. Into the picture again was forced the familiar figure of Jack Dempsey, the mauled Manassa mauler, who never yet has failed to quicken the pulses and loosen the purse-strings of Tex Rickard's fight faithful.

This time it will be Dempsey, chief second and advisor of the challenger, on whom the promoter must depend for the injection of life into a match that bears all the appearances of a financial corpse. If all goes well, and the New York State Athletic Commission, like Barkis, is willin', then Dempsey tonight will climb again through the ropes of the Yankee Stadium ring, this time lugging a water-bucket and with a towel slung over his arm rather than draped about his massive shoulders.

TURNS TO DEMPSEY

Thus has Rickard, in his hour of need, turned again to the man whose ring personality has drawn millions of dollars through the turnstiles while his thudding fists painted one drama after another on the pages of ring history.

The nomination of Dempsey to his old familiar role of the gate attraction overshadowed all but the continued absence of droves of ticket purchasers from the Madison Square Garden box offices yesterday.

In his camp at Fair Haven, N. J., Heeney is in seclusion, his training grind over, while he awaited the yacht that will carry him to New York for the weighing in exercises at 2 p. m. in the Garden today.

Tunney, calm and tranquil in the knowledge that he has trained himself perfectly for the battle, his second in three years, and will enter the ring in the finest condition of his career, is prepared to fly to the scene of battle. He will take off from Lake Pleasant at Speculator, N. Y., in an amphibian plane just in time to reach New York for the weighing in.

N. Y. APATHETIC

Unlike other big moments in fight history, the eve of this heavyweight championship quarrel found New York apathetic. There were no crowds of fans from distant cities thronging hotel lobbies to argue the chances of champion and challenger. A mere trickle of customers filtered toward the box offices in Madison Square Garden and there was so little betting on the match that the odds of 3 to 1 on the titleholder were hard to determine. Even the inveterate "moochers" of complimentary tickets, discouraged by Federal and state taxes that levied a take of $9.20 on a $40 top price seat wandered around looking for friends with radio sets.

Although Rickard insists that the gate for his big show of 1928 will run close to $1,000,000, those close to the ticket sale have admitted that gross receipts of between $600,000 and $800,000 seemed the best guess. Shortly after noon yesterday the advance sale was re-

VETERAN STAR TO PLAY IN CUP DUELS

PARIS, July 26.—(AP.)—Big Bill Tilden is going to play against France for the Davis cup after all.

He was reinstated yesterday just as suddenly as he was yanked out a week ago. He was brought back into the fold to please the French, according to Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, who took personal responsibility for removing the ban which the New York committee imposed.

During the week of banishment, French tennis officials went to United States Ambassador Myron T. Herrick and it was through his importunities that the reinstatement was brought about.

When informed that Tilden was to play, Rene Lacoste, his French rival, said that his decision not to go to the United States to defend his American championship in September would not be affected. Lacoste had announced his decision to default the United States title immediately after the United States Lawn Tennis Association declined to accede to a plea from the French Tennis Federation that Tilden be allowed to play.

FIGHT RESULTS

At New York—Sergeant Sammy Baker won on a foul over Andy DiVodi, 5 rounds; James J. Braddock and Nando Tassi drew, 10 rounds; Andre Routis defeated Vic Burrone, 10 rounds.

Tommy Grogan knocked out Sid Barbarian, 4 rounds.

At Wilmington, Del—Frankie Dangelo defeated K. O. Leonard, 8 rounds.

At Marietta, O.—Joe Columbo defeated Bobby Grant, 10 rounds; Jack McFarland defeated Lou Juneta, 10 rounds; Paul Wanzo and Herman Paugh, drew, 4 rounds; Charley Dunlap defeated S. Jeffers, 4 rounds.

At Chicago—Roy Williams defeated Johnny Mason, 10 rounds; Oscar Battista and Tom Williams drew, 5 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Tom Toner defeated Frank Yarchant, 10 rounds; Jean Mangeot defeated Eddie Dempsey, 8 rounds.

At Youngstown — Dick Evans knocked out Harry Martone, 4 rounds.

At Mitchell Field, N. Y.—Joe Trabone defeated Marty Silvers, 10 rounds.

Tunney to Seek Kayo; Heeney Out to Stay

NEW YORK, July 26.—Pre-battle statements of Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney follow:

TUNNEY—I am ready for a tough fight, but if I can land just one solid punch where I want to, I expect to knock out Heeney. I am in better shape for this fight than I was in either of my bouts with Jack Dempsey. My hands are tougher, my wind is better and my legs were never stronger.

HEENEY—I will give the champion a hard fight and I will be in there at the end of the fifteenth round if the fight goes that far. I have met all the best heavyweights in this country, but I have never fought like I am going to fight against Tunney tonight.

Chances Favor Victory for Tunney—Holds Edge in Nearly Every Respect—Rickard Likely to Lose Money—International Relations Bring Tilden Back and Brighten Davis Cup Outlook.

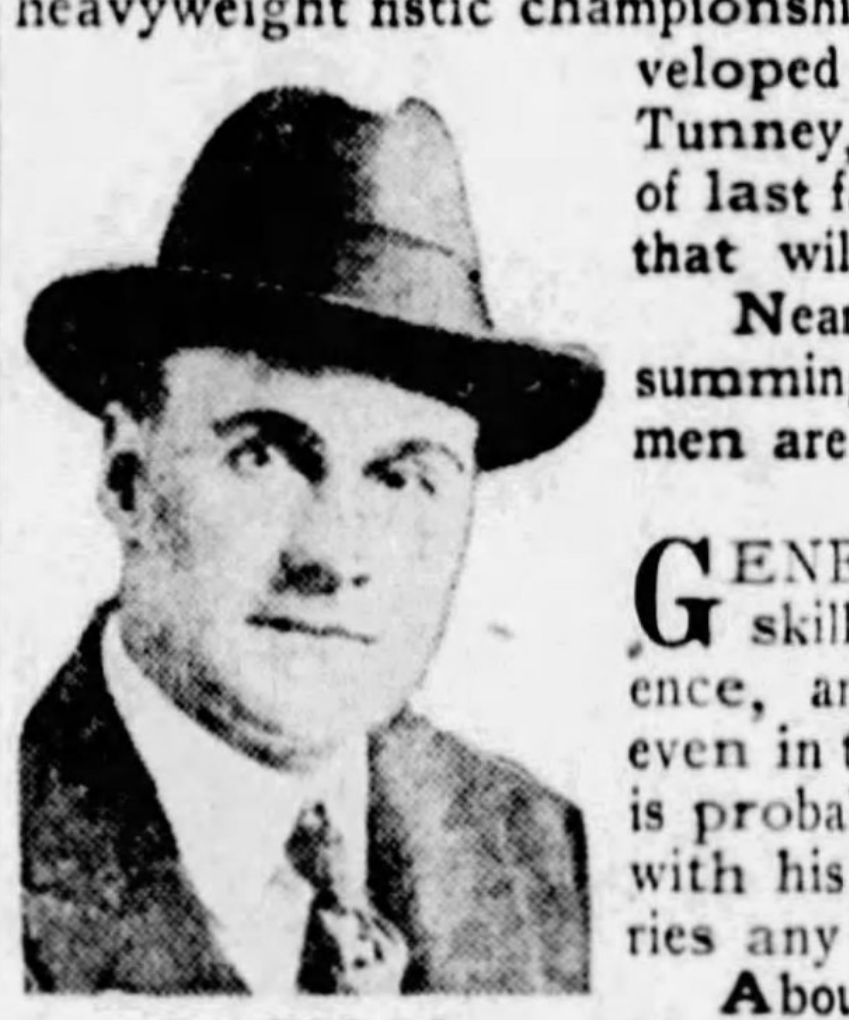
WITH the hour almost at hand when the clang of the bell will call Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney to the center of the ring at Yankee Stadium in New York to fight for the heavyweight fistic championship of the world, nothing has developed to alter the original opinion that Tunney, if he is anywhere near his form of last fall, is likely to win by a margin that will leave no room for argument.



Tex Rickard

Nearly all of the main items in a summing-up of the qualities of the two men are in favor of the champion.

GENE has the advantage in boxing skill, speed, generalship, experience, and quick-thinking ability, and even in the matter of punching power it is probable that he is the harder hitter with his right hand, though neither carries any dynamite in his maulies.

About the only department in which Heeney excels, apart from his ruggedness is aggressiveness, and it is questionable whether that will work out in his favor, for the two Dempsey fights demonstrated that opponents who are always coming in are made to order for the titleholder.

JACK DEMPSEY'S promised appearance in Heeney's corner as second and adviser is mere ballyhoo to help the gate, and it does not follow that he will be of any great help to the New Zealander.

Tom can fight only one style, whereas Tunney has the ability and knowledge of ring craft to change his tyle sufficiently to offset anything that Dempsey may tell Heeney to try.

---

AND Dempsey can hardly make a fighter who never approached his own standards accomplish something that he couldn't do himself.

It looks from this distance as if Heeney will not have a chance for victory unless Tunney has lost a lot through long idleness and lacks the right mental attitude and the urge to win. Gene appears likely to retain his title by a decision on points at least, and if a knockout is scored, it is probable that the Marine will be the one to land it.

---

PROMOTER TEX RICKARD is apt to find himself out of pocket when the receipts at tonight's fight are counted.

Johnny Risko.

There has been less interest manifested in the Tunney-Heeney match, with lighter betting, than in any heavyweight title match staged in years, though every means of ballyhooing the show have been resorted to during the last few days, it is doubtful if the intake will be large enough to save Rickard from a loss.

---

TEX'S expenses will be something like $800,000 and it will be surprising if the show draws that amount. Yesterday

BUCS ANXIOUS TO KEEP OVER .500 MARK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 26.—It would seem to be up to the Duke of Burleigh to keep our Pirates from skidding beneath the .500 mark this afternoon in the third game of the so-far fruitless series with the Giants. Grimes has the slab assignment on top of the two defeats sustained by Joe Dawson and Carmen Hill.

John McGraw is expected to send Fred Fitzsimmons against the Pirates, although there is a chance that Left-hander Jim Faulkner will get the job, in view of the relative success of Bill Walker, who yesterday received credit for a triumph over the Pirates.

Manager Bush may decide to put Glenn Wright back at his post today in order to add to the punch of the Buccos. Wright played part of yesterday's contest owing to an injury received by Paul Waner, who was struck on the throwing arm with a wild throw to first base.

P. WANER HURT

Paul's arm was so sore that the Pittsburgh boss decided to lift him in favor of Wright. Glenn went to right field for a short spell, but Bush later moved to put Wright back in the short field. Sparky Adams went to right and Dick Bartell switched to second. Brother Paul is expected to be able to play today.

Two of those "Chinese" homers defeated the Pirates, 6-5, in the second game of the series. Boots Grantham matched the first of the fluke round-trippers by hitting to the stands with two of his mates on the sacks and two out in the eighth. The three tallies deadlocked the contest

Marines Back of Gene

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 26. — (AP.) — The lone telegraph wire here has been clogged with mesages relayed from the United States Marines in all parts of the world, addressed to their former buddy and fistic idol, Lieut. James J. Tunney, United States Marine Corps Training Camp, Speculator, N. Y.

One from Nicarauga read:

"We are all behind you from the general down to the greenest buck private. Knock his ears off."

The Marines in Haiti said:

"We might be down in the hills, but our best wishes for a quick clean-up will be with you Thursday night."

From China came the following:

"We have covered all the Anzac money here and looking for more. Give him the whole works. Chop, chop."

The U. S. Marine Corps headquarters at Washington wired:

"Every wish that you win by an early knockout."

DEMPSEY TO SECOND TOM; MAY AID GATE

By HAVEY J. BOYLE,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 26.—While announcement that Jack Dempsey, former champion, will be in Tom Heeney's corner tonight when the New Zealander meets Gene Tunney, the champion, in the Yankee Stadium, caused a flurry in a last-minute sale of tickets, the news did not affect the hard-boiled gamblers who have made Tunney the favorite in the betting. The "price" when the warriors climb through the ropes tonight most probably will be three to one on Tunney, a figure which has been quoted almost since articles for the bout were signed.

The boys who look at the boxing game closely were saying here today that Dempsey was going into Heeney's corner at the request of Tex Rickard rather than at the request of Heeney. In other words, Dempsey was going into Heeney's corner to stir the gate receipts in upward fashion rather than for the usual primary purpose of helping the boxer.

That Tunney grew nervous when told of Dempsey's decision to go into Heeney's corner is doubtful. Having beaten Dempsey twice, Tunney likely has little regard and less respect for what advice Dempsey can hand Heeney to contribute to Tunney's downfall. Dempsey, in telling Heeney what to do and what to avoid doing, will have to whisper in embarrassed fashion: "Don't do as I did, but do now what I should have done," which will hardly inspire Heeney very much.

While many fans question whether Dempsey's presence will make the slightest change in the tide of battle, nevertheless there was in fight circles today a strong current of tribute for the former champion, whose appeal to the fans was so strong that Rickard sought to cash in on it by using Dempsey as a second. And the announcement did help the seat sale.

Even in the role of second, Dempsey has that power to give to affairs he is connected with the aspect of a feud. His taking sides with Heeney

MACON, Ga., July 26.—Illness of George Stallings, owner of the Montreal International League Club, has taken a grave turn, his physicians indicated.

Champion Set for Go

By GENE TUNNEY,
Heavyweight Champion of the World.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 26.—Just a few hours before the championship battle with the British challenger to determine the resting place of the heavyweight belt, I wish to reiterate that I am fully confident as a result of my splendid condition that the title shall stay in the U. S. A.

Gene Tunney

I am well rested after last night's rest in my own bed here in this mountain shack, and it will be a simple matter to board the plane and arrive in New York early this afternoon. I have no fear of the trip by air. It could never compare with the long ride to Philadelphia through heavy fog, when I could have put out my hand and touched the mountains at Delaware Water Gap. Then it was Casey Jones who got me to the ring to win the title from Dempsey. This trip Bill Winston will handle the work on the way to the Yankee Stadium.

And when the bell rings for the first round the spectators, I am positive, will witness a fast fight. No one who has seen Heeney in action in the ring can disparage his powerful fighting ability. But he is meeting a different man from the one who took the title from Dempsey. I am at the peak and believe tonight's fight will prove it.

Excitement yesterday afternoon over the usual false rumors of a crash of the seaplane on its way from Curtiss Field to carry me to New York today broke up what otherwise was the quietest day in Speculator since my training began.

CAMP QUIET

With the exodus of newspapermen from the camp the place was as tranquil as a New England Sunday. My day opened with a wash in the open air at the "family pump" outside the three-room shack in the woods that I have occupied for the past two weeks. Nobles rowed me across the lake to the trail that winds through the woods for my last road work—a jog of four miles. No one accompanied me.

After a hearty breakfast to satisfy the appetite resulting from this last bit of limbering exercise before the tilt with Heeney I spent the time on the porch of the shack reading and writing for word of the seaplane's arrival. Then came the wild stories of crashes at Schenectady and feverish telephone calls.

There were many "I told you so's" as the word passed among the few remaining camp followers. Hardly had the tales been proved incorrect than the Sikorsky amphibian plane was discerned high in the sky over the rim of mountains bordering the lake

JOHNNY RISKO, the Cleveland baker boy who has fought and been defeated by both Tunney and Heeney, and who therefore should know a thing or two about them, predicts that Tunney will win by a knockout.

"Heeney could not hurt me," Risko is quoted. How could he hurt Tunney? Tunney is 100 per cent better than he was when he beat me in 1925. He hits harder and he does not miss. Tunney will knock him out or they will have to stop it to save Heeney from being badly hurt." Risko classes fighters in two groups, those who can fight and those who cannot. Of Tunney he says most emphatically, "he can fight." Of the other contenders, himself excepted, he says with equal emphasis, "they cannot fight."

Bill Tilden.

AFTER announcements and counter announcements that kept the tennis fans of the country guessing for more than a week, it now appears that Big Bill Tilden is going to play on the American team in the Davis Cup matches in Paris after all. On Tuesday Samuel H. Collom, president of the U. S. L. T. A., who at first declared he would order the playing of Tilden despite the fact that other powers in the association had ruled him out, withdrew his stand and announced that Tilden would not be permitted to play, even though the French Lawn Tennis Federation had requested his participation. Yesterday afternoon, only 24 hours later, President Collom announced another about-face and cabled that in response to the French requests he authorized the playing of Big Bill, though he added he had done so because French officials had brought pressure to bear on the American Ambassador, who then advised it was important to acced to their request on the standpoint of international relations.

THIS is the first time that anything suggestive of governmental intervention has developed in a sport squabble. It is a high tribute to Tilden's importance as an international figure, as well as to French sportsmanship, and a jolt to his political opponents in American tennis. Probably it will mean the end of the unpopular player-writer rule, which never should have been adopted.

Tennis followers in general will heartily approve the latest ruling, and see new hope for the recapture of the Davis Cup by the United States. With Tilden out, the American team would have been beaten before it started, but with Bill back in the lineup there is at least a chance for victory.

Ervin Brame.

IT ISN'T an alibi to say that the Pirates were outlucked in losing by one run to the Giants yesterday. Joke home runs were their undoing. True, Grantham got a home run for the Bucs with one man on, but his drive went far back into the second tier of the grandstand, whereas the so-called four-basers of Lindstrom and Hogan merely struck the facing of the balcony. And the McGrawites got four runs out of their two trick homers, while only two tallies for Pittsburgh resulted from Grantham's drive.

THE Bucs are back at the .500 mark in consequence of their two straight defeats in New York, but at that if they win today and the Dodgers lose Pittsburghers will be only five points below fifth place. The appearance of Brame yesterday as a pinch-hitter was one consoling feature as it probably means he is about ready to take his turn on the rubber, where he is sorely needed.

ported from the same quarters to be hovering under the $500,000 mark.

STADIUM READY

Out at the Yankee Stadium, home of the world champion ball team, carpenters have prepared the park for a capacity crowd of 97,000. Around the ring have been set 20,000 ringside seats priced at $40 each, while the grandstands, holding 40,000, have been scaled from $40 to $20. Rickard cut the price of 7,000 bleacher seats from $5 to $3 today in an effort to stimulate the sale.

Just beyond the pitcher's box, the ring that stands all winter in Madison Square Garden has been set up. Over it has been focussed a battery of 40 lamps in shiny nickeled cases, each lamp ready to cast 1,000 candle-power down on the gladiators.

The failure of either battler to arrive in New York the night before the 15-round skirmish seemed to dampen interest somewhat. There was no scurrying through hotels in an attempt to ferret out combatants for last pre-battle statements as in previous years. From the camps alone came the word of both Tunney and Heeney—"I am ready."

Part of the lack of enthusiasm seemed due to the general belief that Tunney, who has promised to pound the hard rock into soft sand, easily merits the odds of 3 to 1 placed upon him. The belief is everywhere an opinion has been formed that Heeney is "made" for the champion with his wide open style of attack and willingness to plod forever into Tunney's smashing counters.

LOW SCORES RECORDED IN WESTERN TOURNEY

CHICAGO, July 26.—Professional and amateur golfing stars who swung into action here today for the second day's qualifying play in the western open golf tournament, had some low marks to shoot at.

Today's players are headed by Johnny Farrell, national open champion, Bob Macdonald, Chick Evans, Jr., Al Espinosa, Jock Hutchison, Harry Hampton and a host of other nationally known stars.

Half of the tournament entrants played their first 18 qualifying holes Wednesday, with Bill Tinder, Anderson, Ind., and Phil Hesler, Bristow, Okla., leading the field with scores of 70, two below par.

BRITISH OLYMPIC TEAM ARRIVES AT AMSTERDAM

AMSTERDAM, July 26.—(AP.)—John Bull's track and field delegation for the Olympic games, 57 strong, has reached here and gone into quarters at Amsterdam's "Ellis Island," an emigration hotel which has been transformed into a comfortable hostelry by the steamship company which set out to rival the luxury of the American team's floating home aboard the President Roosevelt.

Headed by Harold Abrahams, a former Olympic winner, who will act as captain of the British team this year but will not compete, the British presented a strong lineup, including Lord David Burleigh.

HELEN WILLS IN FINAL

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 26.—(AP.)—Miss Helen Wills, premier woman tennis player of the United States, defeated Miss Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, 6-2, 6-0, in a semi-final match of the Essex County Country Club's invitation tournament today.

The California girl, who has won the tournament here twice previously, had no difficulty in defeating her opponent who was able to take only two games in the two sets.

Miss Cross had a hard time winning the honor of facing Miss Wills in the final matches, but managed to gain a victory over Mrs. Harper. The scores were 6-4, 6-8, 6-4. Miss Cross defeated Mrs. Harper in June for the Pacific Coast women's championship in straight sets.

Great Left Gives Gene Edge—Jack

By JACK DEMPSEY,
Former Heavyweight Champion.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Now that I'm "experting" on a heavyweight championship fight for the first time in my life, I suppose that it's up to me to do like all the other boys: Flip a coin and call it, and, after that, to name the man I think will do the winning.

But I have no coin. Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney are getting it all low. I'm just a poor reporter —and not very expert. However, this looks like a sort of free-for-all affair, so far as picking goes, anybody can get into the spirit of the thing—and so here I go with my pick:

It's Tunney—if—and—if—!

But I'm not betting any money on my selection.

Tunney has the thing that's called "class;" he has the greater skill. He has a wonderful weapon —that crashing left jab. It's his main stock in the fighting trade. If he can operate that left hand against Heeney in the way he has performed with all his other fights, then Tunney has a mighty big edge in his favor when the old gong bangs.

DEPENDS ON LEFT

A left jabbing attack, as good as Tunney displayed against me in both Philadelphia and Chicago, is the one thing I am counting on to make him win. But if his jab isn't so snappy as it was on those two nights, if he has lost the accuracy, or the knack of punching with it, then my choice is like this:

Tom Heeney!

I figure that if Tunney can keep Heeney away from him, if he can force long range fighting, at which Tom would not be so good because of his short arms, then Tunney ought to win by spearing Tom one round after another. But if Tunney's left isn't what it used to be; if Heeney can avoid it, as they say in England, then Heeney is very likely to upset all the dope the experts have cooked up, crowd into Tunney and bounce Gene around hard enough and often enough to win the fight.

If Tunney can manipulate things so that it'll be open ring warfare, he has the big advantage. If he cannot halt Heeney, and Tom gets close, it surely will be a rough and tough evening for Tunney.

Some folks think that Heeney's style of rushing is made to order for Tunney. I think different. An ordinary rushing type of ringman would be easy for Gene. But this Heeney man just goes scuttling into his man from all angles, in a most unorthodox way, and Tunney will

PADDOCK CASE DROPPED

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 26.—(AP.)—No formal protest against the eligibilityy of Charle Paddock, California sprinter, has been made by Great Britain, the International Olympic Committee announced today in a formal communique. The statement followed circulation of fresh and conflicting reports over the sprinter's status.

Paddock's status was brought informally before the international committee by the British delegate, Gen. Kentish, as a result of London newspaper reports of the Californian's radio talk on the 1924 Olympic final in the 100-meter race. Paddock's talk, according to his own version, described how the four Americans in the final of that race might have "framed" the British star, Harold Abrahams, had they wished to use unsportsmanlike methods. Paddock said he stressed the fact that the Americans had not done so, Abrahams defeating his Yankee rivals and capturing the Olympic crown.

Today's announcement by the committee was designed to flatly deny reports that Gen. Kentish had filed a formal protest.

Reaffirming a previous statement, Edstrom, of Sweden, president of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which controls track and field athletics, told newspapermen that the Paddock case probably would not even be mentioned at tomorrow's meeting

"Tom's shaking hands with Simpson!"

"Yes. Ever shake hands with Simpson yourself? It feels like picking up a pudding . . . you understand why he's never had pep enough to hold a job long."

Yet Simpson had tried often enough to brace up and get himself into better shape. Tried using the whole range of ordinary laxatives; health foods that took weeks to act—cathartics that wracked the system . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's. Correct constipation—now!

Announcing A New Reo Wolverine

The Sedan
$1295
at Lansing

DRESSED IN THE MODE OF TOMORROW

THERE is a new Reo Wolverine on the streets today . . . a car built to fill a very real need: the need of modern men and women for a car that is distinctively smart without being ostentatious, that is beautiful and able, but inexpensive.

You'll find new grace in this latest Wolverine Sedan . . . a new feeling of length, of roominess without bulk . . . and, of course, many of the refinements which characterize fine larger cars: all-metal rear contours, bullet-type headlamps, deeper radiator, special belt treatment blending into a new paneling on the sides.

And beneath this up-to-the-minute style, these new Wolverines carry a hard-working, punishment-taking power plant that assures delightful mastery over traffic . . . that says, "I'm a car that means business," every time you touch the accelerator.

You'll enjoy looking over the new Reo Wolverine . . . and if you haven't driven one already, just take a turn behind the wheel . . . you may find that it's just the car you've been waiting for.

Tom's Family Not Worried Over Bout

LONDON, July 26.—(INS.)—The Parents of Tom Heeney, the boy from "down under," who fights Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world tonight, are not worried as to the outcome of the battle, a Central News dispatch received from Auckland, New Zealand, indicated today.

"If Tom gets beaten," his mother said, "why that's all there is to it. It wouldn't make any difference to us. We'd still be proud of him."

"I am proud to be the man who has at least reared the second best fighter in the world," was his father's modest comment. "Even if he only comes out second best, my pride won't be lessened. If Tom looses. it will have taken a champion to beat him."

HANDLERS PREDICT WIN BY KAYO

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 26.—(AP.)—Some where in this immediate vicinity, Tom Heeney, confident of victory, piled out of bed early today after his last sleep before engaging Gene Tunney in his quest of the world's heavyweight championship in the Yankee Stadium tonight. He will leave this morning with his training retinue for New York, making the trip on a yacht. He will arrive there just in time to weigh in at 2 p. m.

All sorts of rumors floated around the deserted camp concerning Heeney's whereabouts yesterday and just where he slept last night. The official communique from the challenger's general staff said he slept on a yacht anchored in the wide reaches of the Shrewsbury River, which winds from this picturesque Jersey country to the Atlantic Ocean.

Clear Weather Forecast for Title Bout

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP.)—Clear, cool weather has been forecast for the day and night with no hint of the rain that has spoiled dozens of outdoor shows this summer in the northeast breezes forecast. The main bout is scheduled to go on at 10 p. m., Eastern Daylight Time.

The challenger is ready, both mentally and physically. He said this morning that he was as confident of victory as ever.

"I'll be in there all the time," he said. "I will give Tunney a hard battle, and if the fight goes the distance, you can bet that I'll be on my feet at the finish. I have never fought as I am going to fight Tunney tonight."

His handlers are as confident as their man. Charley Harvey, Heeney's American manager, said that Heeney will be the next heavyweight champion of the world and that it is his. Harvey's opinion, that Tom will win by a knockout after the tenth round.

"He'll either win by a knockout or on points," Harvey stated.

It was reported yesterday that he spent the day on the yacht. However, observers for the little group of newspaper correspondents still hanging around, with a lone camera man, reported that the sturdy Gisborne gladiator spent the night in the little yellow cottage he has occupied all during his training campaign. The story that he slept elsewhere was circulated merely to keep undesirable visitors away from the cottage.

Instead of spending the day on the yacht, floating around the Shrewsbury, Heeney loafed the entire afternoon on the beach three miles away, in company with his trio of brothers, who came on from New Zealand for the fight; Eddie Harvey, brother of his American manager; Phil Mercurio, one of his sparring boys, and Jimmy Hennessey, the trainer. The shaggy New Zealand challenger sprawled his massive frame under a big beach umbrella and remained there until dinner time.

One of the startling developments of the day was the news that Heeney went to Redbank yesterday for a hair cut and shave. The last scraping before the battle. In submitting to the shave Heeney violated the custom of Jack Dempsey, who used to go into the ring with two or three days' growth of whiskers.

British Display Keen Interest In Bout

LONDON, July 26.—Great Britain was hopeful but skeptical today that the long list of humiliating defeats of British heavyweight boxers by Americans might be ended.

Tom Heeney, the New Zealander, who is one of Britain's own, fights Gene Tunney for the world heavyweight championship in New York and boxing fans throughout the empire—from London through the remote provinces—were agitated.

Britain doesn't like to remember what happened to Joe Beckett in recent years. Neither does the nation like to think of the lack of success that has been Phill Scott's in his American venture.

The nation has prided itself on Heeney. The rugged blacksmith from out east doesn't have the showiness of ring craft of the more popular ring idols, but he has withstood the steady socking of some of the contending heavyweights in the United States and that has made him popular.

But in meeting Tunney—that is something different.

Many British boxing authorities have gone to New York to write of the contest. There has been considerable interest in the papers here.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

NEW YORK, July 26.—If Tom Heeney should upset the dope and win the heavyweight championship from Gene Tunney in their bout in the Yankee Stadium tonight, there will be a lot of disappointed persons in this town. They will be the folks who can't see the fight at all as a spectacle and will listen in on it over the radio or read about it in the newspapers tomorrow—if at all. The general opinion here is that it is no contest—that Tunney stands out so far over the challenger as to render the latter's chances nil. A canvas of expert and inexpert opinion by the New York newspapers shows that only about one in 50 thinks Heeney will win the fight and few regard it as a match that will be worth writing home about.

IN VIEW of this situation, Promoter Rickard has put in about the gloomiest week before a fight in his long career. He simply cannot sell his product to his customers. The chances are that if he had it to do all over again he would postpone the show until September, and then perhaps substitute some one with more color and recognized ability than Heeney as the challenger.

TEX has his own idea of why this thing isn't going over in true Rickardian style. He blames Tunney for considerable of the lack of interest. He cannot see why Gene should be so stubborn about certain things, such as hiding himself away in the woods to train and flying to the fight, for instance.

THE fans didn't get a chance to see the champion work. His camp at Speculator is four miles from the railroad station and a couple hundred miles from New York. Only one telegraph wire was available there to handle all of the file of the newspaper correspondents, and this department wasn't up to the old standard.

THEN, too, Rickard is recalling now how much trouble he had getting a gate for his Dempsey-Jack Sharkey fight last July. Many of the regular patrons of fights are out of town on vacation during this hot month. Tex also is blaming the two big political conventions for having grabbed all of the space in the newspapers for weeks.

A LOT of things have been wrong, as Tex can see as he looks back and does a bit of reflecting, but its too late to correct them now—and he's going through with his white elephant tonight and like it. There's nothing else for him to do.

IF TUNNEY should make good his determination to stop Heeney in quick and sensational fashion he'll be a drawing card the next time out. If he doesn't and just manages to outpoint the hard rock in 15 drab rounds, Rickard and the rest of the fight mob can kiss those million gates goodby, at least until another Dempsey happens along, which is about once in a lifetime. And if matters continue to get no better for Rickard, we may see the day soon when he will refuse to give the heavyweight champion a guarantee and force the challenger to fight for training expenses and the big opportunity.

DEMPSEY

have to be a clairvoyant to guess just which way Tom will climb into him.

GENE MAY TIRE

If Tunney should tire it means that from that moment on Heeney would have the advantage over him. Tunney's timing of punches is based upon his speed, his timing of ducking, slipping and blocking is all geared to his natural speed. Slow down that speed and the consequence is he would not be able to land punches with the earlier precision, nor would he be able to get out of the way of blows which, under conditions favorable to him, he could easily avoid.

Heeney's battle plan long since has been outlined. He means, so he says, to tear into Tunney and force the fighting; he intends to make the fight a test of durability, both in the matter of fast action and in the ability to stand up under punching. That is a smart plan for Tom.

In conclusion, it's my definite idea that until the first five rounds have been fought the battle will be pretty well scrambled in plenty of "ifs" and "buts." But by the time the fifth is over, I think that the outcome of the fight will be forecast. If Tunney has kept Heeney back with his left hand, and battered the New Zealander around while doing it, and has escaped damage himself, Tunney figures as an almost certain winner.

On the other hand, if Heeney has, by some trick, handcuffed Tunney's left jab, and forced Gene to depend on his right; if Heeney has succeeded in crowding and roughing Tunney and brought the whole battle down to a supreme test of muscular power and stamina, then I figure that Tom Heeney's calling cards after the end of the fight will read like this:

"Tom Heeney, Champion."

SCHALK NOT TO RETIRE

CHICAGO, July 26.—(AP.)—Ray Schalk, who resigned July 4 as manager of the Chicago American ball team, said today he has no intention of retiring from baseball. It was reported he refused a settlement with the White Sox when he left the team, but that he intended to negotiate a settlement more satisfactory to himself. He and his attorney visited Commissioner K. M. Landis yesterday.

PIRATES

after Fred Lindstrom had poled out a three-run homer.

The Grantham homer seemed to fill the athletes with the contagiou, and everybody who went to the barrier appeared to be swinging for the short section. In the last half of the eighth Shanty Hogan measured the left field facade for a drive that could easily have been caught on a regular ball orchard, and the Buccos were beaten again.

WALKER BETS WIN

Bill Walker, one of McGraw's many southpaws, hurled eight frames against the Pirates, the Grantham homer tending to shake McGraw's confidence in the youngster. In any event, John sent Genewich in to pitch in the ninth. With one out, Hargreaves singled, and Brame batted for Hill. The clever Brame walloped a vicious liner toward left center, but Travis Jackson hauled in the drive, and the game ended on the next batter with a force play.

The Pirates scored two runs in the third, and the Giants came back with two. It was in this frame that P. Waner was struck, but he did not depart until the fifth. Lindstrom's important, but lucky, homer came in the seventh with two out, and Grantham's four-sacker, also a fluke affair, was struck in the eighth with two erased. Hill had three balls and two strikes on Hogan when the big catcher pulled the ball against the stands for the run that won.

Farquhars Win Father-Son Tourney

J. G. Farquhar and his son, W. C. Farquhar, captured the father and son golf tournament held at the Pittsburgh Field Club yesterday. It was an 18-hole medal play affair, under one-half of combined handicap, with selected drives and alternate strokes. The Farquhars scored a net 70, their gross being 85. W. L. Hardie and his son, J. H. Hardie, ranked second at 71, while Carl W. and Bob Warmcastle were third at 72. The leaders' scores follow:

J. G. Farquhar and W. C. Farquhar, 85-15—70; W. L. Hardie and J. H. Hardie, 91-20—71; Carl W. Warmcastle and Robert Warmcastle, 87-15—72; C. S. Ecker and C. S. Ecker, Jr., 90-17—73; J. H. Steitz and W. N. Steitz, 89-15—74; F. G. Bannerot and F. G. Bannerot, Jr., 86-10—76; J. A. Ellen and J. A. Ellen, Jr., 93-17—76; C. K. Robinson and A. H. Robinson, 89-12—77; W. A. Irvin and W. A. Irvin, Jr., 89-11—78; G. A. Gill and Fred Gill, 97-18—79; M. A. Smith and J. R. Smith, 97-14—83.

HAGEN GETS REVENGE

NEW YORK, July 26.—(INS.)—Walter Hagen and Archie Compston, crack British professional golfer, are quits today. The American, who was trounced by Compston in England by the lopsided margin of 18 up and 17 to play, evened the score by beating the Britisher, 6 and 5, in their return match concluded yesterday at Rye, N. Y.

Tunney 3 to 1 Choice

introduces the first "personal conflict" element in the whole tableau. For months Rickard has vainly tried to get Tunney indignant at Heeney and Heeney wrathy at Tunney, but Tunney and Heeney spoiled all such plans by being gentlemanly towards each other. The fact that Dempsey has thrown his support to Heeney at the last moment introduces for the first time the suggestion that possibly between the combatants tonight there may be something more than just an exhibition for so many dollars to determine which is the better man.

The personal grudge stuff is what attracts the customers, and the fact that Dempsey may be still smarting for his beatings by Tunney, and now seeks an indirect revenge, lifts slightly the bout tonight from the low level of a commercial proposition which was responsible for little public interest.

The empty seats tonight will tell the story of how risky it is to stage a heavyweight championship between two men who do not own a knockout wallop or who, if they do own one, have succeeded in keeping it pretty much of a secret.

On the romantic side, which is to say on the side of color and atmosphere and ability to stir up ballyhoo, Tunney and Heeney are not far behind Dempsey, but where they fall terribly behind Dempsey is in the fact that, while Dempsey made the customers feel sure they would see fireworks coming from his sleep-producing wallops, Tunney and Heeney make the customers feel sure that neither has the power in a single blow to cause a conflagration of fan emotions.

The empty seats simply mean that the customers like a little blood, and, missing the possibility of a massacre, they refuse to get steamed up.

K. O. CHANCE SLIGHT

The prospect for tonight, despite the fact that two large men are going to swap punches, is that the affair will go the limit, or if it doesn't go the limit that one or the other man will lose not from the effect of one magnificent blow, but through a series of lesser blows, whose cumulative effect will spell a knockout.

Tunney looks like the winner either on points at the end of the 15-round bout or possibly by a knockout some time between the tenth and fifteenth rounds. He is a superior boxer to Heeney and a better puncher. Heeney's best asset is his ability to take it. He has proved that he is quite a sponge a soaking up wallops. Consequenly, a man of this sort is not likely to bow early to Tunney, if at all.

There are many who remember Tunney's two fights against Dempsey who believe that, had either bout been scheduled for 15 rounds instead of 10, that Tunney would have stopped the rapidly tiring Dempsey. This was especially true in the Philadelphia fight, when Dempsey would have had to resign from temporary blindness if the bout had gone a few more rounds. In Chicago it was a weary Dempsey, too, who tried to smile through a bloody face when the gong sounded to end the tenth round. So, on the basis of such returns, it is possible that Heeney, great as he is in absorbing punishment, may find that the remarkable Tunney may ow nough steam after the tenth round to put over a series of punches that will stop the bout before the fifteenth round.

It looks from this corner, then, that Tunney will win either on points over the full distance, or will score a kayo some time after the tenth round. I can' give Heeney a chance to win. If I'm wrong, and the thought is too horrible to contemplate, see your attorney.

Adolphe Menjou picks OLD GOLD as camera records the Blindfold test

The test was conducted by responsible witnesses who asked Mr. Menjou to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. While the camera recorded the test, only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"

Brand No. 1—"Well I don't know"

Brand No. 2—"Not so bad—but . . ."

Brand No. 3—(OLD GOLD) "I like this!"

Brand No. 4—"No . . the third one wins!"

"I've discovered a new way of mixing business and pleasure. The parts I play call for the constant smoking of a cigarette . . . I probably average one cigarette to every hundred feet of film. In the blindfold test I discovered one so smooth, so considerate of my tongue and throat that even the business of wholesale smoking while we're shooting scenes will be a pleasure. The cigarette I voted for proved to be OLD GOLD."

Calls Big Business "Hogs;" Unemployed, Very Bitter.

By B. C. FORBES

WE have this in common with God: Each one of us creates his own world. Therefore, each one of us lives in a different world. The world we see is not the same world as any other human being sees.

It is wholesome for us occasionally to have others tell us frankly how they size up us and the world we live in, as they see it. Blunt, even brutal, criticism may do us more good, once in a while, than words pleasing to our ears.

VERY often communications of a sweepingly condemnatory nature come unsigned. The following are extracts from a letter which the writer had commendable courage to sign. His statements represent the manifestly sincere convictions of one of the unemployed, a man of 42, who has been out of work 18 months and, as he explains, has spent almost the last dollar of the $1,800 he had saved:

"OCCASIONALLY I read your articles—but rest assured not very often, and when I do, it is due to my inability to resist reading something that will make me boiling mad.

"I have never paid enough attention, or at least close enough attention to your articles, to be able to say just what your title is, but I would respectfully suggest that you change it to the 'mouthpiece of big business and finance,' as about all I have been able to discover from your writings is that you are engaged in a sinister scheme to paint the big business lily white, and perhaps you are meeting with considerable success, due to the moron intelligence of the average American inhabitant.

"YOU, like the rest of the hirelings, prostituting your mentality to the interest of the big business whole hogs (and God knows that's flattering them), like to sneer and snap at the 'whinings' of the failures—the protests of those who are driven to the river, as I probably shortly shall be, because I am denied the right to make an honest living in a country overflowing with plenty; in a country, which, Dr. McFaul says in the Yale Review, is easily capable of supporting five or six times its present population in absolute comfort; in a country in which, despite the fact that there have been bumper crop yields—actually over-production in all lines, agricultural and manufacturing—there have been between six and seven millions of people out of work, and in a country which, according to Irving Fisher, makes it the hardest kind of a task for 80 per cent of the population to eke out a bare existence.

"ON the other hand, the whole hogs you are in the contemptible business of defending have been increasing in leaps and bounds. Twenty-five years ago, the apex of wealth was estimated at about a quarter of a billion.

"Today we have swine whose wealth is estimated at over two billions—two of them at least—another at over a billion, and hundreds over the quarter of a billion mark. The 30,000 figure explains very graphically where all the prosperity is going.

"OUR farmers, performing 10, 12 and 14 hours each day of hard labor in the hot sun, receive, in most instances, less than 2 per cent on their investment, while our elite bankers, lolling round in luxuriously furnished offices in palatial bank buildings for a few hours each day, and spending the balance of their time on artistically horticultured golf links, reap 50 per cent on their investment.

"BY the way, B. C., there was a little news item in the papers the other morning that should give you something to think about, if you are capable of thinking straight and honestly. It mentioned the decrease in Italy's unemployed to the extent of 49,000, the unemployed of that entire country being placed at the figure of 249,000.

"Of course, the solution lies in the fact that Italy probably has few millionaires—I bet you dollars to doughnuts Mussolini would not stand for any such bunch of whole-hog parasites, of the hirelings that make possible their existence.

"I OFTEN wonder if there isn't, after all, some power that will eventually usher in a day of justice, when just retribution will be handed out to those who so richly deserve it.

"Read and reflect, Mr. Forbes, if you have one spark of humanity left in your shriveled soul."

THIS other letter has also just come to hand:

International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America.
Long Beach, Cal.

Dear Mr. Forbes:

Permit me, in behalf of the Oil Workers' International Union, to express appreciation to you for your splendid efforts in assisting the oil workers' union in obtaining a six-day week in the petroleum industry. Your constant efforts in the column conducted in the Hearst papers by yourself, has aided very materially in crystallizing the sentiments, plus the efforts of the union, which has brought about in the state of California a rest day in seven.

California is the only state in the Union where the eight-hour day, and now the six-day week, in the industry prevails. In Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Wyoming Montana, West Virginia, Ohio they are working the 12-hour day even at this time.

Again permit me to extend our appreciation for your articles. With best wishes for your continued success,

H. C. FREMMING.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS SOME RESISTANCE

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP.)—Increased selling resistance was apparent in today's stock market when efforts were made to extend the rally begun a few days ago. A number of issues were marked up 1 to nearly 6 points in the early trading, but operators for the advance had difficulty in maintaining the gains. Several new weak spots developed, particularly in the railroad equipment group.

Call money was again in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 5½ per cent and loans were made as low as 5 in the "outside market." Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates held firm. Uncertainty over what will be shown in the weekly statement on brokers' loans to be issued after the close of the market led many traders to take profits and others to put out new short lines.

The day's business news had a bearish tinge, particularly the omission of the regular dividends on Lima Locomotive and Belding Hemingway. The copper industry reported a marked slowing down in sales last week but this was regarded as temporary. The Marland Oil Company reported another large loss in the first half of the year, although the second quarter made a much more favorable showing than the corresponding period last year.

Coty, Otis Elevator and American Radiator stood out with extreme gains of five points or more. American Beet Sugar and General Gas and Electric "A" moved into new high ground. U. S. Steel climbed more than two points and then ran into heavy profit-taking, while Radio and General Motors ran into heavy offerings on every bulge.

Lima Locomotive broke nearly five points to a new low at 44.

In the rail group, the strength of Delaware and Hudson and Canadian Pacific was offset by the heaviness of Texas and Pacific.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 26.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 13 to 15 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, with probably a little selling on reports of rains in the eastern belt. The rains in the Southwest were considered favorable, however, and the advance met heavy realizing, together with local and Southern selling.

October, after selling up to 20.82c at the start, or about 25 points net higher, eased off 8 or 9 points from the best, with the market comparatively quiet and steady at the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to covering and rebuying on the firmer technical position, but cloth buyers were cautious and results from the Shanghai auctions were less favorable.

The realizing sales attracted by the initial advance were readily absorbed and the market advanced on continued covering or rebuying by recent sellers influenced by reports of increasing boll weevil infestation in Alabama and apprehensions that the eastern and central belts were getting too much rain. October sold up to 20.94c, with the general list showing net advances of about 37 to 39 points. The demand tapered off somewhat at this level and the market was quieter at midday with prices showing reactions of a few points from the best.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The raw sugar market was quiet and unchanged today. A sale was confirmed to an operator of about 20,000 bags of Cuban for first half of August shipment late yesterday at 4.14c delivered, and today there were additional offerings at the same price. Refiners showed no interest above 4.08c.

The continued slow demand in the spot market and the unsettled tone of the refined market was responsible for early selling pressure in the raw sugar futures market. Prices at one time showed net losses of 1 to 2 points. The offerings, however, were not aggressive and after they had been absorbed by shorts and Cuban interests a steadier tone developed. Rallies left midday prices net unchanged to 1 point higher.

The refined market was unsettled. Local refiners made no change from their 5.75 to 5.80c level for fine granulated, but all outport refiners reduced prices 20 points to the basis of 5.60c for fine granulated.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Early Advance Halted.

General Motors and Steel both made new highs for the movement today with swings in numerous specialties. Vanadium, Air Reduction and Texas Gulf. Sentiment was also helped by marked improvement in New York Central and Canadian Pacific, two of the best rails. However, the passing of the Lima Locomotive dividend centered attention on the unfavorable state of affairs in the equipment industry and there was scattered selling in the car and engine stocks. American Woolen continued under the weight of the offerings which caused the sharp break in the stock yesterday. The strong tone of the general list gave way to one of rather nervous apprehension later in the day as the Street began to consider the possibilities of the brokers' loan statement to be issued after the close. Consideration of this matter took precedence over the expected bullish report of Bethlehem Steel late today and the assumption that United States Steel will issue a favorable statement for the second quarter next Tuesday.

Uncertainty as to Loans.

There is a greater diversification of opinions and predictions on the probable showing in the brokers' loan report after the close today than there has been in many weeks. Because the market has been moving forward in many directions the view is held in some quarters that an increase might be reported. Commission house have reported that customers are taking a larger long interest in the market, and this fact is pointed to as indicating that a gain is likely. However, others contend that while many individual issues have been moving ahead, others have been hesitating or reacting, and this has brought rather heavy liquidation into such stocks which has gone practically unnoticed, but which could not only offset the increase in public long account, but could actually bring another reduction in the loan item.

Marland Cuts Quarter Loss.

Marland Oil Company reports for the June quarter consolidated net loss of $41,159, compared with loss of $1,876,992 in the preceding three months and loss of $2,155,500 for the June quarter of 1927. Figures are after depreciation, depletion, interest, intangible drilling costs and abandoned leases. Six months consolidated net loss amounted to $1,918,151, against loss of $1,926,808 in the corresponding period in 1927.

Houston Net Below Last Year.

Houston Oil Company reports for the June quarter consolidated net income of $388,980 after interest, depreciation and depletion, as against $337,862 in the preceding quarter, and $857,123 in the June quarter, 1927. Six months' net income was $726,843, against $1,338,019 in 1927.

Report Stewart Controls Indiana.

Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, according to the New York World, has obtained 51 per cent of the stock of the corporation, which he now controls by ownership or proxy. This would make demands of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for his removal from the Indiana company's chairmanship seem futile. Wall street is talking of a deal between Harry F. Sinclair and Col. Stewart for the tightening of the alliance between both companies, according to the World.

Wheeling Steel Record Quarter.

The Wheeling Steel Corporation reports for the quarter ending June 30 net profit available for dividends of $1,530,125.69, after deducting repair and maintenance charges amounting to $1,315,979.41. The sum of $12,267,762.75 was set aside to the account of surplus for July 1, 1928, as against $11,400,957.06 for the quarter ending April 1, 1928.

I. M. Scott, president, said the company had been able to earn excellent profits despite low steel prices. More rapid transportation and use of the inland waterways were named among the reasons for keeping down overhead in delivery. The report, one of the best ever submitted, shows the net profit available for dividends from that period to be $1,530,125.69.

Great Northern Improves.

The Great Northern Railroad Company reports net operating income of $2,356,124 for June, against $2,316,053 in 1927, and for six months $7,442,220 against $7,032,835 in 1927.

Oil Well Supply.

Some improvement has been shown in sales of Oil Well Supply Company recently but there has been no revival of great proportion. Sales fell off sharply in the latter half of 1927, due to curtailment of oil well drilling following overproduction of crude. Reports for the six months ended June 30, to be published soon, will not show preferred dividends earned. It is understood operations of some months in the first half of this year were at a loss. In the first half of 1927 net income was $726,860, but losses in the latter half of the year and year-end write-offs reduced the net for the entire year to $490,502. This was equivalent to 4 cents a share on the 366,567 shares of common stock after dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock. In 1926 $4.81 a share was earned on the common stock, which was on a $2 annual dividend basis until the dividend was passed last month.

American Republics Corporation.

American Republics Corporation and subsidiaries report for quarter ended June 30, 1928, net income of $183,368 after interest, charges and reserves for federal taxes, equivalent to $1.63 a share (par $100) earned on 100,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock. This compares with net loss of $251,729 in preceding quarter and net loss of $202,332 in second quarter of 1927. Net loss for first six months of 1928 amounted to $88,361 after above charges and compares with net income of $132,117 or $1.32 a share on 100,000 shares of preferred stock in first half of preceding year.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Oliver Iron & Steel Broadens Activities. Superior Steel Now Dividend Paying Basis.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

ONE of the oldest industrial organizations in Pittsburgh which is still contributing to the city's business development is the Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation. Established in 1863, it has played a large part in the industrial history of this district.

FOR years it has been one of the leading producers of bolts and nuts, and it also has an outstanding position as a maker of equipment for telephone, telegraph and power lines. It was a pioneer in this latter field. In 1894 it started the manufacture of the first pole line hardware for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Postal Telegraph Company.

WORKING with the engineers of these companies, the first metal fixtures for telephone and telegraph poles were made. The number of these products was increased with the rapid development of the power industry. Recently efforts have been made to expand this type of business by more active sales and advertising methods.

AT ONE time the Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation was a large factor in the actual production of steel and was the owner of extensive iron ore deposits. With the formation of the United States Steel Corporation in 1901 the ownership of the ore properties and most of the steel-making units passed to several of the corporation subsidiaries.

THE tin plate mills were absorbed by the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company and the wire mills by the American Steel and Wire Company. Oliver Iron and Steel retained mill properties necessary to supply its raw materials. These were permanently closed down in 1926, when it was found cheaper to buy steel from other producers.

THE buildings on the South Side formerly used for steel rolling are now supplying the space needed for the growing production of the company's present line of products. Work will be started soon on the installation of new equipment for making track bolts.

DURING the entire 65 years of the company's operation, the ownership has remained with the Oliver family. Until recently, when Bertram D. Quarrie was made president, the actual management had been constantly in the hands of the Olivers. One of the four brothers who founded the business, D. B. Oliver, is still living.

THE company has 1,400 employes. The organization has weathered practically every kind of change in industrial conditions. Its plant facilities and production methods are thoroughly modern. It is keeping pace with the times and is broadening its activities.

THE Superior Steel Corporation's earnings statement for the second quarter showed a marked improvement due to higher prices and increased demand for its products. Net profit for the quarter was 0,760, which was equivalent to 30 cents a share on the 100,000 shares of stock. A net loss of $63,117 was shown in the previous quarter. Losses were shown due to competitive conditions during the entire year of 1927.

SUPERIOR makes hot and cold rolled strip steel. The products are used by the automobile industry, by makers of hardware, typewriters, adding machines and other manufactures requiring small metal parts.

IN THE latter part of 1926, prices for strips were cut sharply. The company does not make its own steel, but buys billets and slabs, which it rolls at its plant in Carnegie. There was no corresponding decline in the prices of raw materials, so that the margin of profit was wiped out last year. Prices of both materials and finished products have since been adjusted so that operations have been returned to a profitable basis.

ALTHOUGH Superior's earnings have shown wide fluctuations, the company is in a strong financial position, and the capitalization is small. Only a short period of prosperity is necessary to warrant the placing of the stock on a dividend basis. Dividends of 50 cents a share were paid in June, September and December of 1926. In that year $2.71 a share was earned. No dividends have been paid since.

Bank of France.

PARIS, July 26.—(AP.)—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 259,000,000; sight balances abroad increased 80,000,000; foreign exchange loaned decreased 97,000,000; bills discounted increased 259,000,000; advances decreased 7,000,000; circulation decreased 295,000,000; current accounts increased 764,000,000. Rate of discount, 3½ per cent.

NARROW PRICE CHANGES RECORDED IN MAIN LIST

Irregular price movements of narrow scope marked the early session of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Recent leaders were quiet and rather uncertain in tone, but volume of business was light and there was an absence of definite activity in any of the favorites.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass, which moved up five points in the last few days, lost the gain today and was back to 230 on a small-lot sale. Interests buying this stock several weeks ago have not changed their opinions as to the company's outlook, nor have they liquidated any of the stock acquired. The present unsettled appearance of the stock is due to withdrawal of the bids from these sources. It is expected, however, that when money conditions have become stabilized, the accumulation will be resumed.

Lone Star Gas and other fuel issues were dull and unchanged in the forenoon market. The newly listed Suburban Electric Development appeared on the board at 18¼, equal to the price at which it has been selling on the local curb, and later scoring a fractional gain over the initial sale.

Armstrong Cork was off a small fraction at 56½, the first time the stock has appeared in the market this week. Standard Sanitary and National Fireproofing preferred were both handled in small amounts at unchanged prices.

Committee Under Plan and Agreement Dated June 1, 1928

Preference Stock
Common Stock Class A
Common Stock Class B

The committee is advised that deposits under the plan dated June 1, 1928, up to and including the close of business July 23, 1928, amounted to 721,629 shares of Preference Stock (being 86.1% of the outstanding amount), 1,457,204 shares of Class A Stock (being 79.6% of the outstanding amount) and 484,500 shares of Class B Stock (being 96.9% of the outstanding amount).

The committee regrets that these deposits do not constitute sufficient amounts of Preference Stock or Class A Stock to insure the carrying out of the plan. In order to afford every possible opportunity to any additional stockholders who have not been able to deposit their stock and in a final effort to bring deposits to the desired amounts, the committee has extended the time for deposit of stock to and including July 28th, 1928.

Stockholders who do not deposit their stock by July 28, 1928, are jeopardizing the plan.

The committee, therefore, strongly urges all stockholders who have not yet deposited their stock to make such deposit immediately with the depositary named below, which will thereupon issue transferable certificates of deposit.

The certificates of deposit are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stock may be deposited at the Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, or the National City Bank of New York.

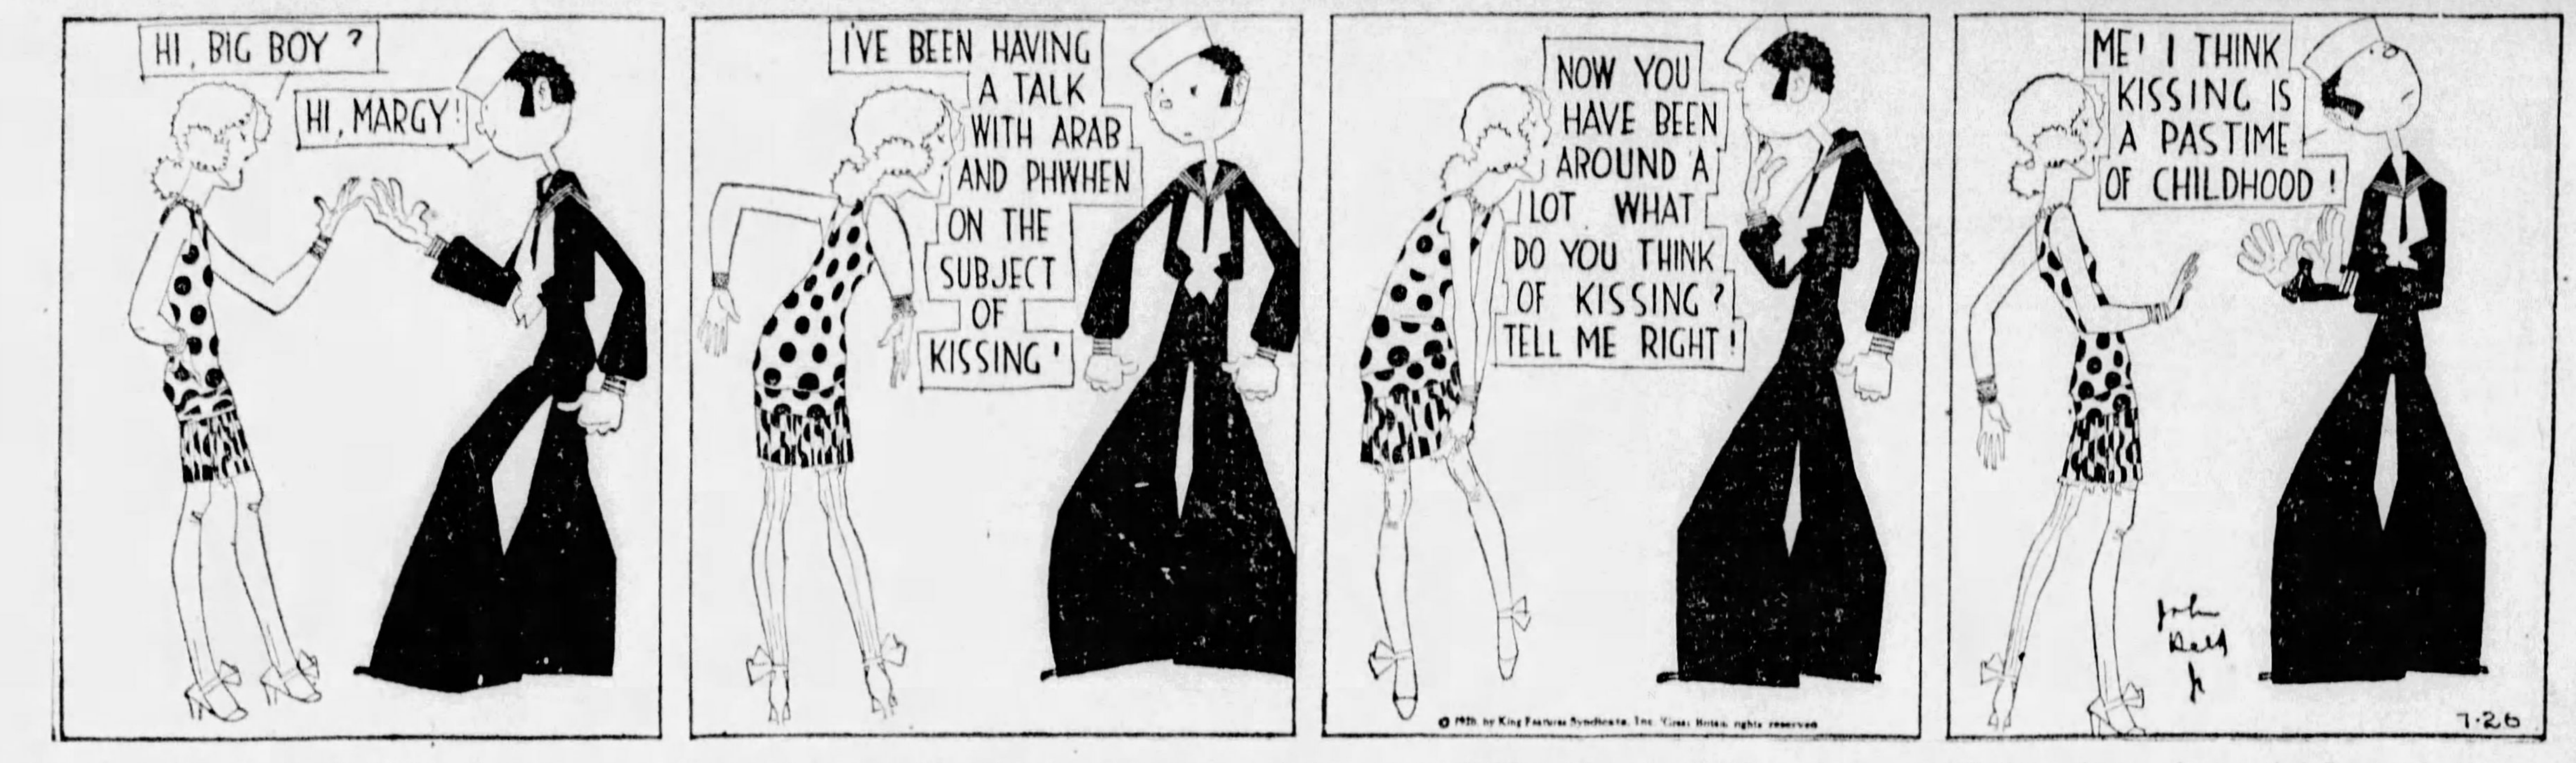
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl -:- Story by Lloyd Mayer -:- By John Held, Jr.



HI, BIG BOY ?
HI, MARGY!
I'VE BEEN HAVING A TALK WITH ARAB AND PHWHEN ON THE SUBJECT OF KISSING!
NOW YOU HAVE BEEN AROUND A LOT WHAT DO YOU THINK OF KISSING? TELL ME RIGHT!
ME! I THINK KISSING IS A PASTIME OF CHILDHOOD!

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-DOOdah! I mean I'm comPLETEly BAFfled and conFUSED at this point, no less, because I simply CAN'T underSTAND this BROTHer of ARab's, my dear, because I mean his SENSE of VALues or something is all-asKEW and-asKANCE, sort of. F'r instance I told him I'd been getting ARab's and PHWHEN'S ideas on the subject of KISSing, my dear, and I asked him what he, as a man of tremendous exPERience of the WORLD, thought about it, my dear, and he CASurally replied he thought kissing was just a CHILDhood PAStime—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean I HONestly think he's FULL of little red ANTS to have such IDEAS, my dear, because SOMEthing must be WRONG with you if you regard KISSing like an aMUSEment of CHILDhood days, my dear, because I mean EV'rybody KNOWS when you inDULGE in a little light SMACKing disCREETly it's the most roMANTic and diVINE idea, but I mean this BROTHer of ARab's deFEATS me because he seems comPLETEly IGnorant of the reFINEments of NECKing that come with AGE and exPERience, do you know what I mean? Not that I think anybody ought to NECK indisCRIMinally, my dear, but I think it's THRILLing to be necked arTISTically by an EXpert now and then and I bet you ANYthing with a little TRAINing Arab's BROTHer would become quite proFIcient, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

WELL, NOTHING WAS FOUND ON OUR WAITRESSES AND NO ONE EVER LOST ANYTHING HERE BEFORE.
MAYBE NOBODY EVER CAME HERE WITH ANYTHING BEFORE_ I HAVE BEEN IN HOTELS THAT IS HOTELS AND NEVER LOST AS MUCH AS A PIN AND WHERE THE HELP HAS MORE BREEDING THAN YOUR GUESTS.
WHY DON'T YOU GO THROUGH THESE GIRLS' LOCKERS AND THEIR ROOMS?_ YOU DON'T THINK THEY'D TAKE ANYTHING AND THEN WEAR IT - DO YOU?
I'M DOING THIS BUT I DON'T WANT ANYBODY THAT WORKS FOR ME TO THINK THAT I SUSPECT THEM.
NO, OF COURSE NOT_ IF IT WAS YOURS YOU'D JUST THINK IT RUN AWAY FROM HOME.
HERE IT IS !! WHOSE LOCKER IS THIS?

County Provides Fund For Metropolitan Study

The County Commissioners have granted the request of the Metropolitan Commission for an appropriation of one cent per capita of county population and have allotted $12,544 for study of the metropolitan plan for Allegheny county. This matter will come before citizens in the form of an amendment to the constitution of the state, to be voted on in November.

As usual in important matters before the Commissioners there was not unanimity on the appropriation, Commissioner McGovern voting against it because he does not approve the form of metropolitan plan proposed. He believes the metropolitan district should have but few minor divisions and contends that the 124 municipal units in Allegheny county would be an obstacle to efficiency through duplication of officials, departments and work.

What he complains of exists at the present time, and it is the purpose of the metropolitan plan to co-ordinate some activities of all units in such a manner that economy would result and a general program of progress be carried out. As time proved the wisdom of the plan it might not be difficult to induce some units to agree to consolidation and thus gradually work to the end that Mr. McGovern sees as the more desirable but which now appears not possible of attainment.

Radio in School Work Experiment Worth Trial

The decision of the Board of Public Education to act favorably on the recommendation of Superintendent William M. Davidson to work the radio into the educational system of the public schools is an experimental venture, of course, but it appears to be one worth a trial. We have faith enough in the discernment of Dr. Davidson to accept with confidence his belief that a radio program of education can be made of much benefit. The service will be in co-operation with Station KDKA and will be without expense to the board.

Installation of necessary apparatus will be much less a difficulty, as Dr. Davidson points out, than the arranging of a program suitable to school work, but there is no doubt that difficulty will be overcome. It will be interesting and profitable to watch the outcome of this innovation.

It seems that eventually both the radio and moving pictures will play a very large part in educational matters. The new talking movies appear to offer an exceptional means of instruction in some branches.

The SIMPLE Headache

There Is No Simple Headache.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in addition to being the biggest in the world, more assets, more policyholders, more insurance in force than any other, is a company that works for the benefit of policyholders.

Recently it built in Long Island City, near its main office, fine apartments renting for only $9 a room per month. And the money so well spent that a $9 per room a month, the building pays better than 7 per cent a year. The company could not invest policyholder's money unless at a profit.

More important than its building is the Metropolitan Life Company's constant campaign of HEALTH EDUCATION, through advertising.

Constantly the Metropolitan Company prints in publications of wide circulation facts that everybody should know about health. Besides being public-spirited, that is GOOD BUSINESS.

It enables policyholders to live longer, prolonging payment of premiums and postponing death collections.

The latest Metropolitan Life advertisement headed "Another Headache" gives information that every man and woman should have.

Many people talk of a "simple headache" and pass it by. There is no such thing as a SIMPLE headache.

Many that have a headache think they have done everything necessary when they take a drug that deadens it. Nothing could be more foolish.

The Metropolitan's publicity man tells you that when the fire bell rings everybody runs to put out the fire. Nobody runs to cut the rope so that the bell can't ring.

A headache is an alarm bell ringing your brain to warn you that something is wrong somewhere in your body. Any part of the body, from the sole of your foot to the top of your head, can make your head ache. And when your head aches you should not "cut the rope" with drugs, but find out WHY it aches, what MAKES it ache.

Here are a few things that cause headaches:

Indigestion.
Fatigue.
Impure air.
Eye-strain.
Nose or sinus trouble.
Infected teeth.
Incorrect posture.
Infectious and contagious diseases.
Nervous disorders.
Emotional strain.
Disordered kidneys, liver, gall-bladder.
Foot trouble.
Intestinal difficulties.
And many other abnormal conditions.

You can cut a rope and stop the noise of a fire bell, but the fire burns the house down.

The drug can stop the warning in your head, but the trouble goes on in some other part of the body, and may do irreparable damage.

Write to the Booklet Department, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, No. 1 Madison avenue, New York City, asking for Booklet No. 78-F. You will get, free of charge, valuable headache information.

Don't take ANY headache lightly. Unless something's wrong a head doesn't ache. Don't take any habit-forming drugs, any so-called "headache cure" that simply prevent the body from giving warning.

Thanks are due to Mr. Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and his associates for their work in health education.

Don't Be "Slouchy"

Looks Count, and Good Clothes.

Important, and discouraging, news for tailors. Young people in London, the so-called "fashionables," consider it provincial to wear "evening clothes" except for really important functions.

Intimate dinners, night clubs, etc., are not important occasions.

In other words, youthful England decides to be "slouchy" and save trouble.

Youthful America will continue to "doll up" and look its best.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Dawn-Man Versus Ape-Man

PROF. OSBORN returns, to the charge, before the American Philosophical Society, in his attack upon the Darwinian "ape-man" hypothesis, which is strongly supported by some other leading evolutionists. He stands by Mongolia as the most probable region of man's beginning, and holds that our earliest ancestors were not arboreal (tree-living) in their habits but dwellers on open plains, "where trees grow in patches along the stream course" and no dense forests or jungles can exist.

He says: "An alert race cannot develop in a forest. A forested country can never be a center of radiation for man. Nor can the higher type of man develop in a lowland river-bottom country with plentiful food and luxuriant vegetation. It is upon the plateaus and relatively level uplands that life is most exacting and response to stimulus most beneficial."

This is quite a different picture from that which the uninstructed imagination of utopia builders has usually drawn of man's most favorable relations with nature. Ordinarily it is assumed that a country rich in food supplies and pleasant to inhabit would be a natural place for humanity to develop—a sort of Garden of Eden. In fact a race might begin in such a place, but it could hardly tend toward any improvement unless forced to utilize its dormant powers and develop its latent energies. This is in accord with the entire history of human civilization, all of the great nations having arisen in the northern temperate zone, where unfavorable conditions have to be strenuously combatted during a large part of every year.

According to Prof. Osborn's idea, then, man was never petted by creative power at the start of his career, never favored by nature, but compelled from the beginning to fight his own battle in an environment that was at any rate not sympathetic, though not directly hostile. There would be no room for Milton's paradise play on the uplands of Mongolia. The scenery, the products, the climate, would all be inconsistent with such a scenario.

However, the Bible story of man's origin may be pushed aside by scientific investigation and reasoning, it always lurks in the background by virtue of the locality that it assigns for its stage. If it is corroborated by nothing else in modern study, at least it finds support in fixing Asia as the continent on which mankind was cradled.

In Prof. Osborn's suggestion of a "pro-dawn man" to take the place of the "ape-man" of Darwin, he introduced a hypothetical climatic revolution, and a grand separation of animals, occurring in pre-Oligocene times, a "great wave or ardity concurrent with elevation of continental plateaus, especially in Central Asia and the western region of North America," which was the cause of "the first modernization of the entire mamalian kingdom."

This caused "a profound cleavage in the mammalian world," the first great natural divorce between the warm, forest-loving types developed during the preceding Eocene period and the temperate planes and plateau loving types which apparently invaded the great Oligocene belt of the 40th parallel, from the north—not only the horses, rhinoceroses, tapirs, and even toed animals like the progenitors of the deer, the cattle and the camel families had to make their choice between forest regions and the plains, but the carnivorous enemies—wolves and foxes and the progenitogs of the greater carnivores in the cat family, were compelled to go forestward or plainsward.

It was then Prof. Osborn thinks, that pro-dawn man, too, made his choice, and chose the plateau of Mongolia. That is supposed to have happened at least sixteen million years ago. Where is that Scotchman who boasted of his "auld family?"

You Can't Fool a Child

WHAT is your standing in the town or section where you live?

In your town, village or city section, if you should die suddenly, would you be listed as "among the town's improvements?"

How do the youngsters in your neighborhood treat you?

Do they speak respectfully, greet you with a smile or other indication of friendship?

Boys and girls are expert judges of human nature.

The person they look upon favorably must be all right.

The one they dislike usually has something about him which is not four-square.

To get an idea of what you really are, notice the way the boys and the girls in your section receive you.

You may deceive older persons, but the youngsters can see beneath your veneer.

If you don't represent something in your home section you are not a success even if you have traveled a considerable distance.

The opinions of the boys and girls is a pretty sure index of your standing, and you might learn to your advantage by the value they place on you.

Sea Wind

As long as the song of the sea-wind comes
With its stories of tropic isles,
As long as the rain on the low roof drums
Or the sun on the rice field smiles,
There is endless peace in this nook of the world
Where the hours are slow and sweet,
With the slim, green plumes of the rice unfurled
To the shimmering waves of heat.

There is nothing marring men's dreams by day,
Which are fairer than dreams by night,
Where the heavy heads of the young rice sway
And with dusk comes the bull-bat's flight.
For as long as the voice of the sea-wind calls
With the tang of salt on its lips,
Its fragrant spell on the spirit falls
With the glamor of out-bound ships.

Great Passages from the Bible

The Beatitudes

(Matthew 5; 1-16)

AND seeing the multitudes, He went up into a mountain: and when He was set, His disciples came unto Him:

And He opened His mouth, and taught them, saying.

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

OF COURSE a guy feels kind of queer going to court to have a fight with his wife. There was a fellow that did this kinda against his will, and he had two of the kids and some of his friends with him. So he was playing with the kids, and when an old lady passed he spoke to her, and he says to his friend, "That's their grandmother."

"On your wife's side?"

"Oh, sure, all the relatives are on her side, though I don't know why!"

The Sultan's Signal

A VIOLINIST appearing in Constantinople received a command to play before the Sultan. In accordance with Court etiquette, nobody applauded, but at length the Sultan himself rose from his seat and clapped loudly.

Regarding this as a mark of royal appreciation, the violinist started to give an encore, but his arm was immediately seized by the Grand Vizier.

"Do you want to lose your head?" he whispered. "Don't you hear the Sultan clapping his hands?"

"I am greatly honored," responded the violinist.

"Honored!" said the Grand Vizier. "That's the signal to stop."

A Toothsome Reply

FREDA was 5 years old and very polite. It was the the first time she had been on a visit alone, and she had been carefully instructed how to behave.

"If they ask you to dine with them when you arrive," her father had said, "you must reply: 'No, thank you; I have already dined.'"

It turned out just as her father had anticipated.

"Come along, Freda!" cried her little friend's father. "You must have a bite with us."

Freda remembered the advice.

"No, thanks," she replied with dignity; "I have already bitten."

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 26.—Journalism in New York strikes me as being in drastic need of an anti-knocking organization. The French stand up for the French and heaven knows the English stand up for the English, but American journalists spend their time roasting each other to a nice autumnal brown.

There is a clique in New York, for instance, that when left alone praise each other and when accused of log rolling roast each other, but they are rarely interested in anybody outside their group, one way or other. The reason is they are so in love with themselves they never heard of anybody else.

A critical viewpoint has become an obsession with many writers. They pore over the work of contemporaries for a mixed methaphor or a split infinitive. A split infinitive just tickles them pink. As a matter of fact, good grammarians agree there is no reason why the infinitive should not be split.

The Fowlers call it "a curious superstition." Conrad split infinitives all over the shop. Shakespeare and Wells used like as a conjunction. Perhaps it is because we are a young nation we have become so intolerant. Age brings tolerance. The reading public yawns at verbal slams. No writer has been so thoroughly heckled as Henry Mencken.

Recently an entire volume of abuse under the title Menckeniana was published. It was filled with excerpts from bombastic tirades for the Baltimore playboy. Sinclair Lewis is a close second in the panning. Yet Mencken retains his following, and the Lewis books sell like hot cakes.

An honest survey of the field would reveal the most popular writers are those knocked hardest by fellow workers. Technicians pant over grammatical absurdities, but the audience that pays for the writer's cake is interested only in the story and how interestingly told.

The interior decorating and outside flubdubbery used to floss up old buildings are an interesting phenomena in a swiftly changing city. Several blocks from my hotel is a scabrous building long an eyesore to the neighborhood and filled with jinkle-jumble merchants.

The ground floor was an ordinary-sized room partitioned off into a queck shoe repair shop, a fly-specked stationery store, and in the rear a cheap labor agency. The cellar was one of those Joe or Mike kindling and coal depots. It was suddenly vacated three weeks ago.

Yesterday I passed the spot and a smart and intimate little French cafe with a French name stood there. The front was spic and span, the tasty window abloom with flowers, and tubbed trees graced either side of the entrance. Inside there was a glow of soft pink lights and obsequious waiters in Tuxedoed attendance. The quick change seemed like an optical illusion.

A certain chain of restaurants after eight in the evening has the most scholarly looking crew of waiters to be found the world over. They are handpicked students from Columbia and several technical and theological schools who are working their way through colleges. It is an odd aggregation of tray wrestlers—aesthetic looking boys with Harold Lloyd glasses, tall foreheads and intellectual expressions.

My experience as a waiter during school days was somewhat like that of Chic Sale. Chic was fired for serving a patron water in a teacup in Indianapolis. I was bounced at the Manhattan cafe in Cincinnati for handing a gentleman a roll with my fingers instead of passing the basket in which they were held.

A famous cartoonist served apprenticeship as a waiter in New York. That is for three days. On the third day he was reaching over the table to place a well-filled bowl of soup in front of a character in a brand new suit known as Tough Larry Hannigan. Midway he succumbed to a hearty sneeze. But it wasn't so bad. He was out in a week.

Investments

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

It is often as hard to keep money safely as it is to get it in the first place.

The best rule for an investor is to consult those responsible people who make a business of studying the matter.

Go to your bank or to some established bond house and follow their advice. Don't listen to interested friends. Beware of people that have a sure thing.

The old rule is a good one, and that is that the larger the returns the more risky the investment. Don't imperil the safety of your capital just for the sake of one or two per cent interest.

Americans are said to sink one billion dollars a year in bad investments. This is simply because they act on the advice of friends instead of financial specialists.

In the words of a recent magazine, "Americans who pride themselves on being the most thoroughly money-wise people on earth, are annually putting a round billion dollars into dubious financial schemes, practically all of which is lost eventually."

We know how to make money and probably are the best money makers in the world, but we don't know how to invest it and take care of it.

Men are about as bad as women: in fact, if anything, women are the shrewder of the two.

Don't go to your grocer or to a successful business friend, but to a financial expert for your advice. This is but common sense. You wouldn't go to your minister for medicine if you were sick. You wouldn't go to your doctor to talk about your soul. And when you want to talk about your money go to an expert.

The investment business is constantly growing more complex. It is impossible for any person of the ordinary type to make intelligent selections himself.

Any modern bank will supply you with an investment expert, and it is a good plan to listen to his advice. He may not offer you securities brining great returns, but his counsel will be safe.

Even the wisest managers of their own business dare not trust their judgement in the matter of investments. There are so many securities on the market, some of them extremely hazardous and by badly managed concerns, that only one familiar with investments can weed these out and tell you what is safe.

Above all you do not want to imperil your principal, and the more money you have the more necessary it is to consult those who know and not follow your own judgement.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

"WOMEN you like to shake till they rattle:

Grandmothers who, from the rear, look like flappers.

Old ladies who wear short skirts and roll their hose. Shaking is much too easy for them!

All women who go without stockings. It's a child's privilege.

Those who go to beauty parlors to get "fixed up" and jabber so loudly that the women in adjoining booths are annoyed during their treatments.

Women in theaters who eat things and talk during the performance.

Women who whine.

Women who lead fuzzy poodles along the street talking baby talk to them.

Women bent upon marrying their sons to wealthy, socially prominent girls, ruling love out of the picture.

Women who put so much black on their eyelashes that when they close their eyes they draw an ugly black line under each eye. The restaurants are full of them. Their escorts always look half ashamed.

Mothers leading their little girls along, their hair blondined, their faces painted. 6-year-old little things dressed like moths, and with the sophistication of girls three years in the chorus!

The ones who pushed their way into elevators first, knowing that they are to get out at the next floor, but who get themselves planted in the rear corner. Then when the second floor is reached everybody in the elevator is pushed and walked upon in order that they may get out.

Women who go apartment hunting, making the superintendent take them through the entire building, when they have no intention of renting.

Women who go into the big stores and try on expensive garments and have them sent out C. O. D. with no intention of buying.

Women who listen in on party wires.

Women who are forever condemning other women for doing things they would do except that they lack the courage.

The box office pest! She goes to the window and holds up the whole line trying to tell the man behind the bars that she knows he has better seats and could find them if he looked.

Gardens Banned

THE growing fraternity of amateur gardeners is wondering what there is about vegetables that Gen. Ely should ban their growth on Governors Island.

Perhaps it is that the fascination of watching them grow is a handicap to discipline. The civilian who gets the gardening craze is proverbially forgetful of the clock. He wants to start digging, hoeing or pruning early, and is liable to continue until late. That kind of engrossment would, of course, never do in the Army.

Yet a proper amount of gardening ought to be a fine thing for a soldier. It would keep his spirit fresh. Wearers of uniforms are also human beings.
